Nazi Transport Badly Crippled By Air Smashes

Shattering Allied Sky Onslaughts Are Being Continued By U. S. Fliers

CLOSE SUPPORT TO GROUND ATTACK

By JOSEPH THOMAS
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

LONDON, Feb. 24.—The United States Eighth Air Force battered the Reich again today in the 12th straight day of the shattering Allied sky onslaught to cripple Nazi transport, and the Germans said other Allied planes were hitting up from the south in a new two-way assault.

The Germans reported one bomber stream heading toward the Reich stretched across the European sky a distance of 120 miles. Other forces from the south were reported approaching Austria.

As Nazi sources reported low-level assaults on targets around Quakenbrueck, southwest of Bremen, west of Bielefeld and west of Muenster the British air ministry announced that between 8,000 and 9,000 planes blasted enemy targets in the greatest assault of the war Thursday.

Huge Area Blasted

Targets were blasted in an area of approximately 250,000 square miles, the air ministry declared.

Enemy reports of planes over western Germany today said they were circling "with changing courses," indicating continued close support of American armies pounding toward the Rhine in their mighty new ground offensive from the west.

Nazi communications were believed in a state of chaos in the wake of history's greatest continued air pounding which has seen 20,000 tons of bombs hurled down by 18,900 Allied planes in the past 72 hours.

The R. A. F. carried out a new punishing assault during the night against communications in the upper Rhineland, sending heavyweight

PA NEWC Observes

Congressmen appear to be convinced that the daylight saving program as a year round proposition, forced on the people as a war measure, has been of little value in the main purpose intended, that of saving electricity. Winter changing of the clock has no effect on the amount of daylight, and only shifts the use of lighting from the close to the start of the day, it is apparent. Some action is being proposed in congress to change the clock regulation.

One local citizen informs Pa Newc that a North Hill man had occasion to do a little spading in his garden plot in preparation for the coming spring and summer growing season, and was amazed to find that spading was easy, the ground being hardly frozen at all. Early arrival of the heavy snow and the fact that the ground was snow covered for nine or ten weeks, prevented freezing of the garden plot during the winter.

While the Neshannock Creek had started to subside yesterday, with a cessation of the rain which fell the preceding day, and a drop in the temperature, the Shenango river was still rising this morning, having reached a high stage of 13.9 feet. This is still about three feet away from flood stage, however, although the stream overflows its banks north of the city when the water reaches this height.

United States weather statistics for the 24-hour period ending at nine a. m. today follows:

Drive Toward Rhine By Allied Forces Is Getting Good Start

By CAPTAIN JOHN H. CRAIGE
(Written Especially For International News Service)

The long predicted American-British offensive on the western front seems to have gotten off to an excellent start with the American 9th and 1st armies hammering out threatening bridgeheads across the strategic Roer river on the road to the Cologne plain and the Rhine, last great natural barrier to American and British forces in the north of Germany.

In all probability the drive by the great western members of the United Nations team is one of the "great new blows" promised the Nazis at the Yalta conference, and its commencement will be followed speedily by the opening of a renewed Red Army drive towards Berlin from the East. Both the western powers and Russia would like extremely well to get the war with Germany liquidated during the present winter and spring. If this is to be done it must be accomplished within the next few weeks, before the heavy rains and thaws of spring turn the German countryside into a sea of mud, paralyzing military operations until the soil dries out for summer.

Good Weather Period

With anything resembling good luck, the Allies should have from three to six weeks more of weather favorable for fighting. Thaws come in eastern Germany and Poland

Allied Planes At Italian Base In 2,300 Sorties

By MICHAEL CHINIGO
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

ROME, Feb. 24.—The entire central sector of the Fifth Army front flared into action today with a series of lightning thrust raids made by Lt. Gen. Lucian K. Truscott's forces before Bologna.

Fifth Army artillery laid down a heavy barrage while the main Allied thrust continued toward Modena.

Brazilian forces continued to launch supporting attacks and made new gains in their own sector, cleaning out numerous pockets of German resistance. One Nazi unit was thrown into battle at Mount Belvedere after a six-day march.

American and RAF planes rained destruction on enemy communications in north Italy, Austria and Yugoslavia.

Bomb Austria Rails

U. S. heavy bombers, escorted by fighters, hit railyards over a wide area in Austria, completely destroying an installation at Woergl. Escorting fighters strafed rail targets from Rosenheim to Innsbruck with "good results."

Other bombers hit rail yards at Verona and Undine in northern Italy. RAF planes staged a night raid on Verona.

Medium bombers, fighter-bombers and fighters hit the Brenner Pass line again and damaged numerous bridges throughout northeast Italy cutting rights of way in 79 places and destroying or damaging large amounts of rolling stock.

Light bombers hit rail lines

Man Shot To Death In His Automobile In Cleveland, Ohio

CLEVELAND, Feb. 24.—(INS)—Nathan Weisenberg, described by police as the one-time slot machine king of Cleveland, "was found shot to death early today in his automobile near his home.

Police said that the man was apparently slain with a shotgun and died immediately. No motive was immediately advanced. However, threats reportedly were made on Weisenberg's life several years ago while he was actively engeged in the slot machine business.

Declares Japan Will Be Invaded

LONDON, Feb. 24.—(INS)—There is no longer any doubt that the Americans are planning to invade Japan proper, a Tokyo spokesman, quoted by the Nazi DNB agency asserted today.

The spokesman warned that large-scale onslaughts against the very heart of Nippon, dwarfing even recent strikes at Tokyo, are imminent.

LONDON, Feb. 24.—(INS)—Reuter's News agency quoted an unidentified radio broad cast today as reporting American troops attacking along the Roer front now are within 19 miles of Cologne.

B-29 Bombers In Heavy Raid On Singapore

Jap Radio Asserts Big Superfortresses Attacked Base In Dozen Waves

By WILLIAM E. ZIMMERMAN
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, Feb. 24.—Singapore Harbor, vital Japanese war center, was pounded today by B-29 Superfortresses. The Singapore radio admitted that "some damage" was caused to harbor facilities and the city itself.

The enemy-controlled radio said that "more than a dozen waves" of the big bombers—130 in all—were over the city for "approximately one and half hours."

The broadcast, heard by the FCC, did not claim that any Superfortresses were shot down, but said that "nine enemy planes were seen to have been damaged enough to emit fire and smoke."

Make 3800 Mile Trip

Washington headquarters of the 20th Air Force announced that the B-29's, winging their way some 3,800 miles from bases in India, dropped their mighty loads of bombs on the extensive and well-established dock and harbor facilities at Singapore which serves as the crossroads for

Vets Bureau Will Have Office Here

Branch Office Will Be Established Here To Assist Discharged Veterans With Claims

Announcement has been made by Kenneth S. Covey, manager of the Veterans Administration for Western Pennsylvania, that a branch office or "contact unit" of the United States Veterans Administration will be opened here on March 1. The office will be located in a suite of rooms on the seventh floor, Lawrence Savings and Trust Company Building.

Work of refinishing the rooms for occupancy by the Veterans Bureau Branch is being completed and they will be occupied next week, it was stated here this morning.

The branch office will serve veterans of Lawrence county, as well as surrounding points in Mercer, Butler, and probably the upper section of Beaver county.

Local veterans have had to go to Pittsburgh in the past to transact business with the Veterans Bureau, but with the establishment of an office here, they will be assisted in making application for rights and benefits under veterans' legislation.

Two New Buses Are Still On Way

Officials of the Shenango Valley Transportation company have received bills of sale for two new buses, but as yet the new carriers have not arrived here.

They cannot be placed into service immediately upon their arrival because licenses from the state must be procured and affixed to the buses before they can be operated. However, no delay other than necessary will keep them out of service after arrival, it was asserted this morning.

First Ukrainian Army Storming Towards Cottbus

Reds Driving Toward Mighty Fortress Guarding Approaches To Berlin

POZAN CAPTURED; BATTLE IN BRESLAU

By NATALIA RENE
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

MOSCOW, Feb. 24.—Marshal Ivan S. Konev's First Ukrainian Army stormed behind air and artillery support today toward Cottbus, mighty Nazi fortress guarding the southeastern approaches to Berlin.

Hammering forward from points less than 16 miles from the fortress city, Konev's surge through Brandenburg province threatened to split the German defense lines before the barricaded Reich capital.

Closer To Berlin

As Konev smashed ever closer to the gateways of Berlin itself, the Soviet high command announced the fall of Poznan, by-passed Polish fortress 95 miles behind Marshal Gregory K. Zhukov's invasion front along the Oder directly east of Berlin.

Capture of the Nazi resistance center despite a demand by Hitler that the encircled garrison hold out "at any cost" was completed yesterday after a month-long siege which cost the enemy 25,000 dead and 23,000 captured, among the latter a commandant and his staff.

At the same time, Zhukov's forces toppled the Pomeranian railway junction of Arnswalde, 40 miles southeast of Stettin, to clear communication for his drive on the Pomeranian capital.

Smash Into Breslau

To the south, Red troops smashed into encircled Breslau behind Konev's front, to seize 20 blocks of the Silesian capital's southern section.

Southwest of flaming Koenigsberg, by-passed and Soviet-ringed East Prussian capital, Red troops captured the towns of Arnstein, Lichtenfeld, Lilienthal, Tolksdorf, Liebenau and Schalmey. More than 500 prisoners were taken in this area.

While the Soviet high command reported only "reconnaissance activities and fighting of local importance" on other fronts, German DNB agency Military Correspondent

Officials Probe Deaths Of Women Found Dead Under Similar Circumstances

CHICAGO, Feb. 24.—(INS)—Coroner's Chemist Dr. Gerald Fostvedt today was conducting new and exhaustive tests of the vital organs of Mrs. Balanche Zimmerman, 38, victim of Chicago's enigmatic hotel tub-death.

Mrs. Zimmerman's nude body was found last Saturday in a partially-filled bathtub at the Atlantic Hotel Hanging on the door of the room was a do-not-disturb sign, left by a man who departed hurriedly two hours before discovery of the body.

There were no signs of violence on Mrs Zimmerman's body, and analysis of the lungs and heart discounted theory of death by drowning or heart attack.

Warmer Weather Now Forecast

PITTSBURGH, Feb. 24.—(INS)—Warmer weather with a possible temperature of 50 degrees and showers tomorrow night was the weather bureau's prediction today for Western Pennsylvania.

The rivers at the point in Pittsburgh dropped after cresting at 22.3—only 2.7 feet below flood level. In Thompson creek, Crawford county, and Oil creek near Titusville, dynamite was used to break ice jams.

The Automobile Club of Pittsburgh warned that five inches of snow had closed Route 89 in Erie county, and that Routes 59 at Kinzua and 127 at Tidioute were impassable because of high water.

Seventeen Others Are Killed In Airliner Disaster In Mountains Of Virginia

MARION, Va., Feb. 24.—(INS)—Five persons, including the stewardess, were listed today as the only survivors from the American Airlines transcontinental plane which crashed into the side of Glade mountain near Cedar Springs, Va., with 19 passengers and three crew members.

The five survivors were taken to the Lee Memorial Hospital at Marion where Dr. George A. Wright said the most seriously injured was Ensign Fred Middaugh, of Los Angeles, with a crushed shoulder and a possible severe concussion.

Mrs. John B. Padgett, 25, of Nashville Tenn., the plane's stewardess suffered a broken collar bone, scalp and brow injuries and probable spine injuries.

The other three survivors were: Lieut. Irving W. Schwartz, Syracuse, N. Y.; Leonard Joseph Ricci a Marine from Meriden, Conn., and Mrs. Viola Ulen, of Washington D. C.

New Helldivers In Tokyo Attacks

NEW YORK, Feb. 24.—(INS)—A new improved helldiver, capable of carrying one of the greatest loads of destruction ever packed into a single-seated plane, participated in the recent carrier strike at Tokyo, Curtiss-Wright disclosed today.

The company, making the announcement with navy approval said the new version carries more than a thousand-pound bomb load in its belly, carried another thousand pounds of bombs in wing racks shoots eight 5-inch rockets and mounts 20-mm. cannon on the wings. It is reported to have superior performance and maneuverability than previous helldivers.

Drive May Bring Major Nazi Defeat

—GEN. EISENHOWER

By KINGSBURY SMITH
International News Service Staff Correspondent

PARIS, Feb. 24.—(INS)—Obviously delighted by the course of events, Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower received news correspondents at a special conference today and expressed a hope that the present offensive by the United States First and Ninth armies will result in a major defeat for Nazi Germany.

Given a break in the weather, the five-star Allied commander-in-chief said, the Americans have a "good chance of destroying the enemy in force on this front."

The new offensive, Gen. Eisenhower said, "is certainly progressing favorably."

The Allied high command, Gen. Eisenhower said, is not expecting unusual losses in the battle on the Cologne plains.

And he clearly indicated this was but one phase in the final defeat of Germany.

"There will be no cessation of aggressive action anywhere on the western front," he said.

Manila Battle In Final Throes

Last Resistance Of Japs Is Being Crushed By Gen. MacArthur's Men

ANOTHER ISLAND SEIZED BY YANKS

By FRANK ROBERSON
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

GENERAL MacARTHUR'S HEADQUARTERS, LUZON, Feb. 24.—General Douglas MacArthur's liberating forces, engaged in the "final" elimination of Japanese forces in South Manila, grappled in "hand to hand" combat today with enemy units in the intramuros district of the Philippine capital.

Gen. MacArthur, in his regular communique, announced that the Yanks were "successfully seizing all remaining points of resistance" inside Manila and revealed also that U. S. Eight Army troops in another surprise amphibious assault seized still another strategic island dominating San Bernardino strait.

Reports Dresden Is Demolished

STOCKHOLM, Feb. 24.—(INS)—A Swedish traveler arriving in Stockholm from a visit paid to Dresden soon after the last Allied aerial blow at that German metropolis reported today that it would be impossible to demolish the city any more completely than it has been.

In all of Dresden, its suburbs and its outlying areas there is not one undamaged house and Nazi officials said 72,000 persons were killed during the last series of assaults on the city, he declared.

Many persons were caught by surprise and were killed on their way to shelters, he added.

Rescue Of 2,146 More Prisoners Made By Yanks

GENERAL MacARTHUR'S HEADQUARTERS, LUZON, Feb. 24.—(INS)—Dramatic rescue by Yank paratroopers of 2,146 allied civilian nationals, 1,581 of whom were Americans, was announced today by Gen. Douglas MacArthur in a special communique from Luzon headquarters.

Daring parachute troops of the 11th Airborne Division, and Filipino guerrillas, in a carefully coordinated raid, descended on the Los Banos concentration camp in an attack so swift and surprising that the camp commander, together with his staff and 243 of the camp's guards, were killed to the last man as they were taking their morning exercises.

Los Banos is located in the hills that line the southern shore of Laguna de Bay, and is some 25 miles inside Jap-held territory.

In disclosing the daring rescue, Gen. MacArthur declared:

"Nothing could be more satisfying to a soldier's heart than this rescue.

"I am deeply grateful. God was certainly with us today."

Fourth Rescue

The daring liberation of the Los Banos internees was the fourth such rescue effected by MacArthur's liberation forces within the past three weeks.

Included in the total of released nationals were 300 Britishers and smaller groups of Dutch, Polish, Norwegian and Italians.

Double Murder In Washington

Pair Found Bound, Gagged And Shot To Death In National Capital

WASHINGTON, Feb. 24.—(INS)—Police today were without clues in a double robbery slaying in which two men were found tied, gagged and shot twice through the head in a downtown Washington used car office.

Chief of Detectives Robert Barrett said police had questioned all residents and merchants in the area in which the killings occurred but had found no one who had seen anyone leave the used car lot last evening near the time when Edward F. Barker, 65, the used car dealer, and Pany Casbarian, 54, government printing office pressman, were presumably murdered.

The bodies of the two men were discovered last night by a woman who said she had come to the lot with an unidentified male companion to see why Barker was late for a dinner engagement with her.

Mouths of both men had been sealed with adhesive tape and their arms tied behind them with strips of blanketing, police said. All their pockets were turned inside out, police pointed out, indicating robbery was the motive for the crime.

Autopsies showed the bullets were fired at close range, taking an almost directly downward course through their skulls, indicating both were killed in coldblood, possibly while in a kneeling position, according to Coroner A. Magruder MacDonald.

SHOOT INTERNEES?

LONDON, Feb. 24.—(INS)—The Moscow radio said today that Adolf Hitler had ordered his SS Elite troops to shoot all inmates of concentration camps before the camps were occupied by Allied troops.

U. S. Offensive Makes Gains On 20-Mile Front

First And Ninth Armies Continue To Drive Forward Onto Rhine Valley Plains

ALLIED AIRCRAFT AIDS IN ADVANCE

By J. C. OESTREICHER
(I. N. S. Foreign Editor)

Only a score of miles separated American advance spearheads from the great Rhineland industrial city of Cologne today as the result of smashing gains recorded in the first few hours of a huge combined First and Ninth army offensive across the Roer river onto the Rhine valley plains.

More than a dozen towns and villages, including heavily fortified Juelich, ancient headquarters of the Knights of Germany, fell into American hands in the course of a 3½ mile gain all along a front of over 20 miles.

Savage street fighting was under way in Dueren, the most important municipality between the American lines and the Rhine, and Allied aircraft, again favored by good weather that carried widespread bombings into their 12th consecutive day, made pulverizing attacks against the town.

To Share Aachen's Fate

It was destined to share the fate of Aachen and it was only a question of time before a city that once harbored 41,000 hard-working Germans, engaged in the manufacture of carpets and paper goods had become blackened rubble—no use for anything but a battleground.

Seizure of Juelich was the most important initial gain, but this will be eclipsed when Dueren falls, and the next stage of Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's long-anticipated western offensive will have begun.

Crossing of the Roer river after the Germans for many months had stalemated all Allied offensive activity in the Aachen area by utilizing its dams and sluices to flood the countryside was a major accomplishment.

Erft River Ahead

But it is too early to say that the road to Cologne has been blasted open.

In the path of the First and Ninth armies still lies the Erft river, which like the Roer was nothing more or less than a good

Army Officer's Wife Found Dead

ITHACA, N. Y., Feb. 24.—(INS)—A romance between the wife of an Army officer and a married veteran of World War II brought death today to Mrs. Marjorie Howley Sharpe, 23. She is the wife of Army Lieut. Lester G. Sharpe.

Police found her dead of a gunshot wound in the back. Less than an hour later Joseph D. Riley, 29-year-old bartender and former soldier, accompanied by his attorney surrendered at police headquarters.

Coroner Ralph S. Low and District Attorney Norman G. Stagg launched an investigation of the shooting.

Philadelphia Board Suspends Ration Of Navy Commander

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 24.—(INS)—In its first such action, the Philadelphia ration board having jurisdiction over service and civilian personel at the Navy yard today suspended the gasoline ration of a Navy physician holding the rank of lieutenant commander.

The officer is Lt. Comdr. Louis W. Statti, former Pittsburgh physician. His ration was revoked until May 9 because he exceeded his ration mileage.

The board found him guilty of using coupons issued him when he was a civilian, and which he should have returned to his ration board in Pittsburgh after joining the Navy last September. The board also said he accepted coupons from persons who rode with him on four round trips between Philadelphia and Pittsburgh.

MANILA BATTLE IN FINAL THROES

Arthur said this operation was one "completing our control of the strait."

Biri was the second island whose capture was announced in as many days, which together with Capul Isle, assures safe passage through the San Bernardino waterway of reinforcements and supplies bound for American forces fighting the battle of Luzon. Biri and Capul both are at the lower end of the main island of the island Archipelago.

Dealing with the final battle inside the Philippine capital, MacArthur's headquarters communique said that 37th Infantry troops had "breached" the intramuros walled city section of Manila, engaging the last-ditch Jap dependers in "fierce" close quarter combat and were rapidly cleaning out remnants of doomed Japs in the area.

Enemy Shelled Santo Tomas

MacArthur revealed that following its capture by Yank assault troops, the enemy heavily shelled historic Santo Tomas university for several days, inflicting casualties on some internees still remaining in the liberated concentration camp.

"Fortunately, casualties were very light," the communique said, "and families have now all been informed."

Meanwhile, as the battle of Manila roared to a crashing climax, units of the First Cavalry Division and Sixth Division Infantrymen, captured San Mateo and Taytay in their drive toward the Marakina watershed.

The American Air Forces, operating in strength, provided close support for the ground troops during the day, with fighter bombers ranging to Cebu and lashing enemy concentrations.

ELECTION A WALK-OVER

"I thought," said the disappointed friend, "you told me this election was going to be a walk-over."

"Well," answered the former candidate, "it was. I was the doorstep."

JAPANESE USING 'BUZZ BOMBS' IN IWO JIMA BATTLE

a communique from his advanced Pacific fleet headquarters, announced that elements of the fourth marine division gained up to 300 yards on the right flank of the Iwo Jima battle line.

Motoyama airfield was captured on the second day of the invasion of Iwo by an estimated 45,000 U. S. marines, while Suribachi was occupied after the bloodiest battle of the entire Pacific war on Friday morning.

Hammer Way Forward

While units of the fourth and third marine divisions hammered their way forward—the third occupying "the southern tip of the central Iwo airfield"—Nimitz declared that there was "no appreciable change in the position of the fifth marine division" to the west.

The estimated 45,000 troops of the third, fourth and fifth marine divisions on Iwo were supported ceaselessly by warships of the fifth fleet, which stood off shore and hurled salvo after salvo into the stubbornly-resisting enemy. In addition, the Japs met the Yank advances with mortar fire and artillery, which was directed principally at the Yanks from Kangoku, west of Iwo.

The Kangoku batteries were "eliminated", however, by U. S. destroyers while "several Jap landing craft" on the rock were also destroyed. Moreover, fighters and dive bombers, based upon the carriers of Adm. Marc A. Mitscher's task force, provided "close" support of the Iwo invaders.

Many Jap Dead

Nimitz—who, after four days of battle placed at 644 killed, 4,168 wounded and 560 missing, the number of U. S. casualties on Iwo—said that at least 717 Japanese dead already were counted around Suribachi. Previously, the fleet admiral had declared that some 1,222 Jap dead were counted in areas wrested from the enemy by the Yanks.

Revelation that the enemy was employing mortars which hurled a 1,000 pound projectile similar to the Nazis' V-2 terror "buzz bomb" came from International News Service War Correspondent John R. Henry, who was ashore with U. S. fleet marines at Iwo. Henry said:

"Explosions witnessed by United States marine officers led to disclosure that the Japs had adopted this kind of weapon, never before used in the Pacific war.

"It is believed that the rocket projectiles are fired from launching platforms located on the island plateau forming the northern part of Iwo. The projectile is equipped with an instantaneous fuse in the nose and a motor which apparently drives it through space after it is launched."

Henry, who declared that "the supply situation has decidedly improved with all types of stores being run onto the eastern beaches despite intermittent fire," said also that navy construction battalion units and marine engineers were "rushing" to render usable the Motoyama airstrip which lies in the shadow of Suribachi volcano.

SEEKING CLUES IN MYSTERY DEATHS

Joseph Medley, 43, dapper two-gun-toting escaped convict, with the fictitious "J. H. Hannan of Dallas Tex." who rented the hotel room in which Mrs. Zimmerman's body was found.

Five persons had previously identified Medley as a free-spending "lady-killer" who patronized loop bars and frequently had been seen in Mrs. Zimmerman's company.

Preliminary investigations of Mrs Zimmerman's death had revealed a striking similarity to the death at New Orleans last Dec. 24 of Miss Laura Fischer, 28, Austrian alien who resided at New York City. Her nude body was found immersed in a partially-filled tub at the DeSota Hotel and a do-not-disturb sign also was hung on the door by a male companion who fled.

Five employes of the hotel yesterday identified phptographs of Medley as the missing "D. J. Stafford, 4611 Hazel Ave., Chicago," with whom Miss Fischer had registered.

Great Stores Of Booty

Describing the fall of Poznan, center of a communications network commanding the entire stretch of territory east of Berlin, the Soviet high command said more than 365 German aircraft and great stores of other military booty fell to the Russians.

Toward the end of January, the communique revealed, Red assault forces broke into the center of the city after penetrating powerful defense zones to capture the railroad station.

Fierce house-to-house fighting raged as the Nazis barricaded themselves in massive, ancient buildings, and Soviet troops invested the forts covering the city from the north and east, annihilating their garrisons.

In Breslau, where stubborn enemy resistance is centered in street-crossing blockhouses, Soviet assault groups captured the radio station and tank and motor vehicle repair shops.

W. C. T. U. AND L. T. L.

Wayne W.C.T.U.

Fourten members of the Wayne W.C.T.U. and one new member, Mrs. Charles Jenkins, and two guests, Mrs. Carl Kocher and Mrs. J. G. Weir, were welcomed to the home of Mrs. John Meehan, of the Ellwood road, for an all-day meeting recently. Morning hours were devoted to folding surgical dressings for the Ellwood hospital.

At noon tureen luncheon was served with Mrs. Rankin Steele, Mrs. Roy Meehan, and Mrs. Harold Shaffer assisting the hostess.

Mrs. Thomas Rodgers opened the business session by reading a poem prayer, "A Bright Tomorrow". The union decided to sponsor a speech contest in the near future and plans for a Youth's Temperance Council in April was discussed. Cards of thanks for flowers were read from the families of Andrew Glasser and Mrs. Edith Barnhart.

A contribution of $5 was voted to the American Red Cross. Wayne is now a holdfast and a fruitful union it was announced. Round robin letters were written to Mrs. Herman Patton, a former member now living in Girard, O., and to Mrs. Dayton Fox, who is confined to her home. Mrs. Claire Boyer reported several generous contributions to the Religious Education fund.

Devotions and program were combined and were presented by Mrs. Boyer. Open prayer by Mrs. Herman Jones was followed by a vocal solo by Mrs. Victor Markle and a reading, "Organization" as interpreted by Frances Willard. It was decided to send the bouquet of white carnations that was placed beneath the picture of Frances Willard in Wayne Consolidated school on Monday to a friend of the union who is ill.

Next meeting will be March 20 at the home of Mrs. Arthur Weyman, Smiley Stop road. Mrs. Victor Markel will conduct devotions and the program on Medical Temperance will be presented by Mrs. Fred Houk.

COLOGNE THIRD GERMAN CITY

LONDON, Feb. 24.—(INS)—Cologne, Germany's third city, toward which the new Allied western front offensive is aimed, is one of the chief cities of western Europe.

It is an important port on the Rhine, and it lies at the Rhine crossing of the great natural highway from Paris via the valleys of the Oise, Sambre and Meuse along the northwestern margin of the Ardennes.

It was an important industrial center in pre-war days. The most famous product was a perfume: eau de cologne.

Cologne, a fortified city, was founded in 50 A. D. by the Roman emporer Cladius, had a population in 1932 of 750,190.

Cologne was occupied in December, 1918, by the Allies under the terms of the armistice. It was made the headquarters of the British army of occupation and was not evacuated until January 30, 1926.

anywhere from mid-March to the end of April, a little earlier along the Rhine.

The way to crack an egg in a vise is to apply pressure on both sides. Hitherto the Allied vise on Germany had tightened on only one side at a time. When the American-British armies were putting on their weight in the autumn, the Russians stood still. Then when the Red Army opened its winter offensive January 12th last, American and British forces were still reorganizing following the Von Rundstedt offensive, and were unable to put great pressure on their side of the vise.

Discussed At Yalta

It seems natural to suppose that this lack of perfect synchronization was discussed at the Yalta conference of United Nations army chiefs and arrangements made to put the greatest possible pressure on both jaws of the Allied pincers that is gripping Germany, at exactly the same time. That is the way to find out if the Nazi egg can be cracked now, and avoid the huge cost in lives and treasure that a continuance of the war into the summer would entail.

Evidence of the brewing of synchronized offensives on the part of the American-British forces and the Red Army is to be found in the tremendous campaign of bombing, both strategic and tactical that has marked the past two weeks. Germany from west to east has been showered with explosives at a rate that dwarfs even January's record of 100,000 tons. Targets from the Rhine to Dresden, just beyond the range of Soviet guns, have been pulverized.

war traffic between Japan and her occupied territory.

While results of the attack were not immediately disclosed, the mention of a "large force" of B-29's indicate that damage to the stolen Japanese base may be as great if not greater than when a huge fleet of Superforts destroyed Singapore's floating drydock February 1.

Fourth Attack

Today's assault marked the fourth attack on Singapore and clearly showed determination of the 20th Air Force chiefs to wipe out that enemy base on the South China sea which could be a thorn in the side of American forces in their eventual invasion of the China coast.

Captured from the British in February, 1942, the great Singapore base has been of the highest importance to the Japs for naval refueling and repair facilities. In addition, enemy troops escaping from the Philippines are also reported to have fled to Singapore and other points on the Malay peninsula.

Don't Say It With Flowers Just Say It With Dollars

Verbal "flowers" have their place. Words of appreciation are fine things in the right place, but this isn't the right place for flattering words about the work of the American Red Cross. This is a time to say it with dollars.

Flattering words won't buy the equipment the Red Cross needs, fine phrases won't provide the help the service man or woman needs. Money will: your money.

Let's save the complimentary remarks for a few minutes and dig down for our share of the $102,000 that is Lawrence County's share of the Red Cross War Fund.

Don't say it with flowers, just say it with dollars. The flowers can come later.

Y.W.C.A. NOTES

Blue Triangle Club

Members of the Blue Triangle club enjoyed a delightful spaghetti dinner Friday evening at the home of Mrs. Jane Cochran of Fern street. Dinner was served at an attractively appointed table, where covers were laid for 18 guests.

Mrs. Cochran was aided in serving by Mrs. Gladys Baker, Miss Bertha Jinks and Mrs. Lila Must.

Baffles Doctors

MEDICAL AUTHORITIES of Los Angeles, Cal., are baffled over the case of this baby which, apparently, was some three months old at the time of birth. The records show that Mrs. Beulah Hunter, 25, wife of an aircraft plant workman, pictured here with the baby, carried the child for over 12 months. The baby is normal, healthy and weighed about seven pounds at birth. (International Soundphoto)

PERSONAL MENTION

Miss June Silliman of Salinas, Calif., is the house guest of Mrs. Enid McMillin, 1014 Becker street, for a few weeks.

Little Constance Anne Bailey of 325 Locust street, who has been confined to bed with illness for several days, is improving.

Harold Haid of 910 Vogan street, who underwent an operation Thursday morning in the New Castle hospital, is getting along well.

Mrs. George Thomas of R. D. 1, Castlewood, is confined to the New Castle hospital for treatment. Mrs. Thomas is somewhat improved.

Ray Robinson of Philadelphia has been called here by the serious illness of his father, Newell J. Robinson of 1114 East Washington street.

Mrs. Clair Hite, of Emerson avenue, has spent the past 10 days visiting her husband, S 2 C Clair Hite, stationed at Oceania, Va., at a U. S. navy air base.

Miss Claire Alice Kohn, a student at Penn State college, has arrived to spend the mid-semester vacation week at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. L. F. Kohn, Park avenue.

Rev. Frederick A. Smith, of 1422 Thorpe street and his mother, Mrs. George A. Smith, of Philadelphia have left for the California coast where Rev. Smith will conduct a missionary tour for the next three months. Mrs. Smith will visit with a daughter during that time.

WOMEN'S DAY AT ST. JOHN'S HOLY CHURCH

Women's Day will be observed at St. John's United Holy church on Sunday, February 25. Those taking part will be Mrs. Bessie Hardney, Mrs. Lottie Guy, Mrs. Ina Connor, Mrs. Margaret Hardney, Mrs. Annie M. Brown, with music by the church choir and altar service conducted by Rev. Mrs. Lillian Washington.

In the afternoon at 3 o'clock a program will be presented at St. John's church by Mrs. Bertha Wagner, Mrs. Katharine Ferris, the Union Baptist church choir, Mrs. Mary Davis, Mrs. Ruby McHenry and Miss Annie M. Brown, Mrs. Carrie Alexander, sermon by Rev. Mrs. Sallie Murdock of Youngstown, O., Mrs. Marie Maddox, Mrs. Viola Hill, Mrs. Lucy Sterling and Mrs. Lottie Guy, Mrs. Ella Watson, Mrs. Mary J. Garside, and Mrs. Ephola Mauldin.

Those taking part in the evening devotional service will be Mrs. Alice Wise, Mrs. Carrie L. Johnson, Alice Ferris and Katharine Byers, Rose Mary Tiller and Grace Maddox. Other numbers will appear on the program.

GRANGE NEWS

Mahoning Valley Grange

Mahoning Valley Grange will meet on Thursday evening, February 27, promptly at 8 o'clock at the grange hall.

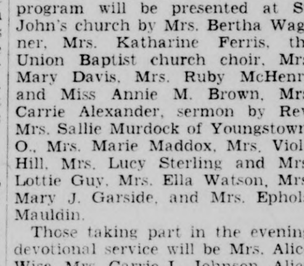

Plans are that a white elephant party following the business meeting will be open to the public. Mrs R. D. Walters is chairman. Cecil McConahy will act as auctioneer.

A lunch will be served by the social committee.

N East New Castle Juvenile

East New Castle Juvenile grange will meet Monday evening, February 26. Gloria Solsberg and Hazel Gibson, lecturer, have planned an interesting program.

Laymen Of Four U. P. Churches To Hold Joint Dinner

Moderator's Dinner At First U. P. Church Friday Evening Fellowship Event

Laymen of the four United Presbyterian churches of New Castle will join in fellowship at a Moderator's dinner to be held at the First U. P. church at the corner of Clenmore boulevard and Albert street on Friday evening, March 2.

This dinner will be the first one of such a nature for the four congregations of the United Presbyterian denomination in this city. It is anticipated that an attendance of about 300 will be present.

Dr. James H. Grier, president of Monmouth college and moderator of the United Presbyterian church, will be the speaker.

The program is in charge of laymen from the First, Second, Third and Highland churches. It will include pep singing led by Robert A. Duff.

Ladies of the host church will serve the dinner. Reservations are in charge of the pastors of the four churches.

Hundreds Jam New Recreation Hall

Several Hundred Students Turned Away From Opening Night Of Swing Lobby

Surpassing anything which either the mayor's recreation committee or the Swing Lobby committee might have expected, over 500 students crowded into the dance floor of the new recreation center on the third floor of city hall Friday evening, while several hundred more, who will get their turn tonight, jammed the stairways and halls outside, and even stood hopefully out on the street for a while.

Celebrating their first night in their new "home", the Swing Lobby group came across with an excellent floor show which was practically stolen by Johnny Katakis and his black-face act. His imitation of Jimmy Durante was also given a big hand by the crowd.

The boy who kept the program stepping along was Gene Baer, the master of ceremonies. Opening the show, Rosemary Factor, Patty Jo Leyde, Dorothy Barge and Donna Smith, all in chorus girl costumes, gave a dance number which was followed by "Frankie and Johnny" and other solos on the banjo ukelele, played by Rick Ferver.

Aline Moffett's group of songs concluded with "Bounce Me, Brother". She was accompanied by Jean Connell. An example of skillful twirling by Jean Tribby was followed by some lively songs and dances by the Barton sisters, Virginia and Wanda, including "There Ain't No Flies On Me" and "Goofus".

Louis "Gussie" Cassino, a student at senior high school, led the orchestra which played for the evening's dancing, while Helen Hazen, Irene Dagress and Elizabeth Yingling, members of the Y. W. C. A. Business Girls club, volunteered their services.

Much of the congestion was because of the large number of junior high school students who showed up for the evening, as well as some members of the Youth Canteen. From now on, the groups will be assigned to different evenings, according to Mrs. Herbert Dean, supervisor of the center. To keep them separate new admittance cards are being printed—blue for one group and pink for the other.

For the benefit of the students who were disappointed at not being able to get into the lobby Friday evening, the center will be open again this evening. Those who turned their cards in last night will not be admitted again tonight, Mayor John F. Haven stated. Swing Lobby will continue to be held on Friday night of each week.

Letters From Prisoner Of War In Germany

(EDITOR'S NOTE: Following is another in a series of "letters from a prisoner of war," written from a German prison camp by INS War Correspondent Lowell Bennett, who was captured by the Germans after he was shot down during an RAF raid on Berlin.)

By LOWELL BENNETT
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

Our biggest show of the year, a "Kriegie Kraft Karnival," just ended a three-day, packed-house stand.

Lt. Col. C. Ross Greening, a Tokyo-bomber from (1020 N. Tacoma Ave.) Tacoma, Wash., headed the show committee which included Lt. Byron L. Morrill of (1542 Rose St.) Burbank, Cal., Capt. Ray F. Sanford of (2016 S. Sierra Vista Ave.) Alhambra, Cal., and Capt. Don H. Ross of (6223 Newell St.) Huntington Park, Cal.

A total of 305 exhibits in the camp's arts and crafts show included 91 drawings and paintings, 91 models in wood, metal and soap of airplanes, ships and automobiles, 59 miscellaneous crafts (plaques needlework etc.), 12 sculpture displays, five architectural entrys (model homes, blueprints etc.) and 47 cartoons.

Ross, staff cartoonist of our local "Pow Wow" daily, ran away with top cartoon prizes. Greening and Lt. Marvin R. Haskins of Eagle Grove, Iowa, led in art prizes and Sanford (an architect from the University of Southern California) led in architecture.

Morrill won in sculpture.

A total of 52 prizes (all cigarets) were awarded.

Gambling booths, hawkers, one-act comedies and Red Cross and YMCA exhibits filled the mess hall and did morale a lot of good.

I'll write more later about plans to take the exhibit home.

Health Talks

City Health Superintendent

HEALTH OF MIND AND BODY

In order for us to do our work properly it is desirable that we have good health.

This means health of mind as well as health of body. Recreation helps to keep us fit.

In the rural districts, individuals are able to provide recreation for themselves.

In the city, it seems necessary for the community to take a large part in these activities.

Our mayor and councilmen are doing a good job of providing recreational facilities. Their efforts are highly appreciated.

All of these facilities are being used and enjoyed. New additions are being provided constantly.

Youngsters like to skate and sled ride. They like to get together at night with music and fun.

All these things help to make strong bodies and healthy minds.

Congressman On Tour Of World

WASHINGTON, Feb., 24.—(INS)—Rep. Everett Dirksen (R) Ill., today was on the first leg of a three-months world tour on which he expects to visit England, India, China, Egypt and Russia and then make a report to his "home folks" at Pekin, Ill.

Dirksen's office, revealing that he left Wednesday by plane for London, said the congressman was using $4,000 "left-over" from his last spring's presidential campaign fund which was raised by his constituents in Pekin.

On The Road To Japan

It may be slightly misleading to speak of Iwo Jima as Japan's doorstep—the mainland is still 750 miles away—but it is a fact that this little island gives America's forces in the Pacific the means for making a direct and frontal attack on the actual home of the enemy. It was not indispensable to American strategy, but it is an advantage to keep it from serving as a threat to future operations.

Excellent airfields will be available for the use of American bombers which are already engaged in the task of softening up Japan and stripping her of her power to carry on either offensive or defensive warfare.

Equally agreeable is the word that the people of Japan are suffering from "invasion jitters." They have seen their capital subjected to the most sustained bombing it has ever received and they have learned that a fleet of American battleships, cruisers and destroyers has been operating within 300 miles of the mainland. This was followed quickly by the invasion of Iwo, which was supposed to stand guard athwart one of the main routes to the heart of the empire.

Among its other distinctions, Iwo is the first outpost attacked by the Americans which is wholly Japanese. Until American Marines landed there were no persons except Japanese on the island. This fact, plus the rocky character of the terrain, may explain why the Pacific command made such long and careful plans for the assault—Iwo had been bombed daily for more than two months—and why the land fighting was so bitter and bloody. This time the Americans had no help whatever from native guerrillas. American casualties have been heavy, but those of the Japanese were heavier. And the island will remain in American hands.

Tribute To Lake Seamen

Announcement of the War Shipping Administration concerning the return to service on the Great Lakes of several thousand lake seamen who volunteered for duty aboard the offshore fleet of the United States last fall calls attention to the patriotism shown by these men at a time when their services were urgently needed for the prosecution of the war.

It will be recalled that a grave crisis existed in shipping last fall and that it was feared that many ships, laden with war cargo, would not be able to sail for lack of trained personnel. The thousands of lake seamen who volunteered for duty with the Merchant Marine and were assigned during November and December to the offshore fleet no doubt were responsible for saving many lives in the war theaters.

It was in mid-December that the Germans made their supreme bid for a break-through on the Western Front and at that time every bit of equipment that could be rushed to the troops was vitally needed.

Lake seamen who man the ships on the Great Lakes during the long navigation season on those waters understandably look forward to a period of rest during the winter months. It is to their credit that they forewent their customry vacations and gave their services to manning vessels of the Merchant Marine.

Yanks Vs. Japs

In more than three years of war against Japan, American Army leaders have had ample opportunity to study fighting qualities of the Japanese. They have discovered there is much to be said for and against ability of the enemy to wage successful combat.

These conclusions boil down to: The infantryman is the core of Japanese military power, but lacks necessary weapons to make him a winner.

The Japanese soldier is not a superman, nor is he a pushover. He has been well trained. His physical condition is good, he can withstand hardships and will follow orders without questioning. He will attack under any and all circumstances regardless of the odds. He is good at jungle warfare and knows how to make the best use of the weapons he has. His officers are adept at moving large forces over difficult terrain, and especially clever in carrying out raids.

It has been discovered the Japs lack weapons needed to back up their foot soldiers and enable them to hold an objective after it has been gained. They have no flame throwers, bazookas, etc. At least they have not used any of these. Always willing to sacrifice infantrymen, Japanese generals gain nothing permanently because their armies are not completely implemented for modern warfare.

And the Jap is no match for American soldiers, either as to skill or bravery. Definitely outmatched, he fights fanatically only to be defeated.

U. S. Transition Period

It is well for Americans to think and plan for our economic future, as many of our experts are doing. There should be plans and methods provided so that the transition from the processes of war to those of peace will be as simple and logical as possible.

Large numbers of American service men will probably have to remain abroad for some time after the nominal restoration of peace. There will be much still to do, of a peace and reconstructive nature, in Europe and Asia. Most of the world will need to be straightened out, got back on its feet and into civilian operation again. The task of restoring wrecked cities and their normal functions will be immense and of long duration. We shall have to help there with our hands and brains as well as our money.

The American Federation of Labor is working on a program to provide jobs for 19,000,000 workers and 15,000,000 new homes within ten years after the war ends. That is not an unreasonable plan, and the men and money can be provided. There may be a natural business slump if peace come more quickly than is expected, but it could hardly last so long as did the transition period after the last war. We know better how to handle that job now, and government and industry will be ready.

It is harder than ever to tell on which side one's bread is buttered.

In the midst of the last world war, a board of scientists has been appointed by Washington to develop new weapons, just in case.

With the next world conference slated to be held in San Francisco, it will be revealed whether there is an advantage in playing on the home grounds.

Plans for maintaining world peace are based on the theory the world has not yet become sufficiently civilized to permit nations to throw away their guns.

No doubt Koiso wonders why Hitler has not sent him a message congratulating him on his great victory over those hundreds of American planes which recently blasted Japan.

WASHINGTON CALLING
by MARQUIS CHILDS

Tactical Air Force Task Is Important

HEADQUARTERS, 29th TACTICAL AIR COMMAND, In Holland, Feb. 24.—Wind blows across the field, and the gray sky seems pulled down tight to the horizon, yet P-47 fighter bombers take off from the airstrip that bisects a sea of mud. The squadron, part of this tactical air command, has waited all morning for minimum visibility in order to go out and get another crack at a railway bridge near Neuss which, for two days, they have been trying to knock out.

These flyers are constantly slugging bridges, railway trains, highways and other targets in advance of the American ninth army. It is a never-ending cycle of danger.

The worst thing about the danger is its impersonal quality. The P-47 pilots these days rarely see any enemy fighters, but the anti-aircraft fire in the Roer and Rhine valleys is persistently heavy and the pattern of the flak is constandy shifting. Losses among pilots, who do over 90 missions in the course of a tour of duty, are heavy. Their scores do not show up in the number of German fighters shot down but in the number of locomotives and bridges destroyed.

Job Not Appreciated

Colonel Harold N. Holt, 28-year-old commanding officer of one of the fighter-bomber groups I visited, feels that the public back home doesn't appreciate or understand the job our tactical air forces are doing. A veteran of 137 missions, he was a rug salesman in Philadelphia before the war. He calls his plane "Magic Carpet", and it certainly has been that for him, pulling him out of more than one tight spot since the first days of the Normandy invasion.

Holt's complaint is that the public thinks of the air forces almost entirely in terms of plane-to-plane combat with the enemy, and rates pilots on the number of enemy fighters shot down. They fail to understand what it means to dive-bomb a target with heavy flak bursting all around.

What is even harder to understand, it seems to me, is the utter boredom of waiting out weather through a rainy foggy, snowy winter. Pilots sit around in draughty, dimly lighted tents, talking or playing cards against a backgeround of incessant radio. When rare good days come, they work around the clock.

One such day has occurred while I've been visiting this command. Holt's group flew three missions that day, in beautiful clear weather. The entire command flew 553 sorties for what may have been a record for the ninth air force and was certainly a record for this command. The score rolled up on that good day was impressive. It included the destruction of 50 locomotives, 187 railroad cars, two railway bridges, and 53 cuts made in rail lines.

Achieves Its Part

What the 29th has achieved is part of the war's greatest aerial offensive, with American and RAF bombers dropping thousands of tons of bombs on the battered Reich. The work of the heavy bombers in the strategic air forces inevitably seems more remote from the war than that of the tactical pilots so

The Parent Problem
By Garry C. Myers, Ph. D.

HELPING FEARFUL CHILD

The mother of three adopted children, 11, 7 and 10 months, whose husband has been in the army for four years, writes of the eldest:

"Jack is a serious type of child. He is very well read. He reads books and magazines that many high school youngsters do not. He makes good grades in school. He is interested in music and plays the piano very well. He is starting on a wind instrument now along with his piano so he will be able to play in the school band. He has always been an honest, straightforward little chap. He is inclined toward a lot of day dreaming and often doesn't hear what is said to him. However, those same dreams usually produce a new plane model carefully worked out or maybe a few lines of verse or a new melody of song that has been ringing in his ears (so he tells me)....

"Jack has always had one fear and that is of pain. He tries to hide that fear, and he is a good soldier's son, but it is still there. I think that may partly account for the fact that he has never been very good at the rough and tumble play that most boys enjoy at this age.

Practice Helped

"Before school started I took time out from canning, baby-care and other household tasks to play baseball with him a while each day. I felt it would help him make the adjustment with his playmates if he would hold his own in at least one sport. Of course, I can't possibly take his father's place, but I think the practice helped him some.

"When school started everything seemed fine for a while. Then

HINTS AND DINTS

Sun sets tonight 6:53. Sun rises tomorrow 7:33.

What we forget isn't so bad, but what we remember isn't often so good.

Very often people who do not think as we do are right.

POWER UNLIMITED

Wm. Wrigley was talking to a group of railroad men.

One of them said: "Mr. Wrigley, your product must be so well known that you don't have to advertise it. Do you think it really pays to keep on spending a million dollars, or more, a year for advertising your business?"

"I shall answer that question with another," replied William Wrigley. "This train is running along very smoothly now. Does it really pay to keep on pulling it with a locomotive?"

Advertising is the POWER that keeps business moving.

And, don't forget that it is far easier to keep business moving than it is to start in again after you have stopped advertising.

Perhaps we'd have fewer empty pews if the churches were compelled by law to make their attendance records public.

He who laughs last seldom gets the point, anyway.

A famous man's biggest job is to keep on being famous.

It is axiomatic that those who get up early enough to see the sun rise do not have the imagination to appreciate the beauty of it.

Nothing is easier than fault-finding . . . no talent, no self-denial, no brains, no character are required to set up in the grumbling business.

Denunciation of a book sells more copies of it than praise.

You don't get much of anything out of life if you don't go after it.

Everybody is in favor of improvements that don't raise the tax rate.

Wanting what you haven't and not wanting what you have—that's human nature for you.

It is becoming to be generally recognized that the only way to have more liberty is to have less law.

We patronized a bus the other day and it had seats for 44 persons. We counted 90 persons getting on and we asked the driver how he did it. Easy," he said, nonchalantly. "I used to work in a sardine cannery."

Do not cast a stone into the well from which you drink.

Some people are so heavenly-minded that they are no earthly good.

"How do you feel today?" we asked a friend who looked rather woebegone. "All burned up," he answered. "Everywhere I go they roast me."

Another proof of breeding and kindness is to let the other guy tell it even if you do already know it.

BUT WHERE IS THE MARKET?

A writer whose interest in orchards probably exceeds his knowledge of supply and demand says: "If, instead of boring holes in the earth for oil, everybody would dig a hole and plant a fruit tree, there would be millions in it. A fruit tree is almost a sure thing. An oil well is a guess."

Oh, for the good old days when an emergency meant only that Roosevelt wanted another term.

Why howl when Russia and England safeguard their future? Somebody must. Are we willing to do it?

Many books have been published and many lectures have been delivered on 'How to Become a Newspaper Reporter'. But here is an example of how not to become a star reporter:

It seems a cub reporter—a discharged veteran of the RAF who had come to the U. S. A. to make his success—and who had been reprimanded frequently for relating too many unimportant details and drilled in the virtue of being 'brief', finally handed in this gem:

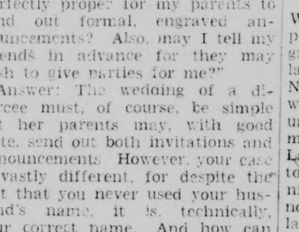

"A shooting affair occurred last night at the Biltmore Country club. Major Gldrags complained of feeling ill, took a highball, his hat, his coat, his departure, no notice to his friends, a taxi, a pistol from his pocket and finally his life. Nice chap. Regrets and all that sort of thing."

If the state should care for children when the father dies, why not when he gets a divorce?

A backward region is one where the smartest men try to get rich by trickery instead of building or producing.

There is a way to outwit the quarrelsome or high-pressure salesman, for there is no answer to silence.

Why does Heinie dread the Russians? They can't be worse than the Gestapo, which murders his family to avenge what he does.

Nearly all hateful people got that way as children and remained that way because others evaded the duty of slapping it out of them.

Note on race prejudice: The only music originatd in America—the spiritual and swing—came from Africa, like the jitterbug dance.

Still, it would be strange if soldiers respected government property after seeing countless tons of it littering beaches and battlefields.

Note on tax justice: If you sell your home for less than the cost, you can't take a loss; if you sell for more, it is taxable income.

U. S. post offices total one day receipts were $16,050,015. Looks like there might be a future in stamp-selling at that.

Good Taste
(By FRANCINE MARKEL)

DIVORCEE'S REMARRIAGE

"Several years ago I was secretly married and divorced. I never used my husband's name. I now plan to remarry my divorced husband. Here is my problem: Several people know of our previous marriage but the majority of my acquaintances have no knowledge of it. Would it be perfectly proper for my parents to send out formal, engraved announcements? Also, may I tell my friends in advance for they may wish to give parties for me?"

Answer: The wedding of a divorcee must, of course, be simple but her parents may, with good taste, send out both invitations and announcements. However, your case is vastly different, for despite the fact that you never used your husband's name, it is, technically, your correct name. And how can your parents, "Mr. and Mrs. John Smith have the honor to announce the marriage of their daughter, Mrs. John Anthony Jones (or Anne Smith Jones) to Mr. John Anthony Jones." That would be absurd!

Marry quietly, without such fanfare. If you have guests, see that they are among your most intimate friends only—those who knew of your previous marriage. Tell your friends of your forthcoming marriage and invite them verbally or by written note. Or better still, "elope" with your former husband and let your family afterward spread the news by word of mouth.

Question: I would like to know if it would be proper for me to give a school boy acquaintance a birthday gift. We have known each other for several months and exchanged Christmas gifts.

Answer: Yes, indeed, you should give him some birthday remembrance. Nothing expensive or too personal, but something, nevertheless.

Question: Which is correct when writing a personal letter to a married woman. . .Mrs. Mary Jones or Mrs. Harry Jones?

Answer: Mrs. Harry Jones, always, whether her husband is living or dead.

Miss Markel will promptly mail personal answers to question from readers inclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Great Game Of Politics

Elements Of Phony Pledge Are Cited

Washington, Feb. 24.

FOR SHEER blatancy and wholehearted ignoring of facts, the new school of labor politicians seem to excel. An excellent example was given a few days ago, when Mr. Reid Robinson, a CIO vice president and aide to Mr. Sidney Hillman, addressed the World Trade Union Congress in London.

AFTER Mr. Robinson had described the "great crusade" in the last campaign and told of the CIO's determination not to rest until Mr. Henry Wallace is "securely installed" as Secretary of Commerce, he dwelt heavily upon the "tremendous contribution" of the CIO to the war effort, proudly proclaiming that "6,000,000 CIO workers have given an unconditional pledge of no strikes while the war lasts." Then he solemnly declared: "And that pledge has been kept in spite of great provocation and frequent injustices." The other delegates to the World Trade Congress must have been impressed. Almost anyone would have been who did not know the facts. But the facts stamp that assertion as wholly false.

AMONG the facts Mr. Robinson did not mention was that the moment he was talking the CIO's United Auto Workers Union, the largest union in the world, was voting whether to continue that "no-strike" pledge or to abandon it. The result of that vote is still awaited. And on last Tuesday, February 20, the CIO Textile Workers Union officially "released" 100,000 members in 53 mills from the "no-strike pledge," denounced the War Labor Board, Mr. Byrnes and Mr. Vinson. And this week, defying an order from the CIO president, Mr. Murray, 8,500 workers of the Jones-Laughlin Steel Corporation, in Pittsburgh, went out on strike, shutting down all vital war production there.

SO FAR, not even a word of protest or explanation has come from these breast-beating CIO leaders, Mr. Murray and Mr. Hillman, who have been trading on their "no-strike" pledge for three years, bellowing about labor's patriotism and their support of the President's war program. Another fact Mr. Robinson ignored was that, as reported by the United States News, "there were 5,000 strikes in 1944, which is more than for any year since records began to be kept in 1916." A great many of these strikes were of CIO unions. They involved more than 2,100,000 workers or 72 of every 1,000 men employed in the country. In addition, the News points out, strikes have steadily increased every year since Pearl Harbor and officials do not believe this trend will be reversed in in 1945. In brief, though last year there were more strikes than for 30 years, there will be even more this year. This is an entirely logical deduction from the record.

ADD TO this that the whole CIO weight is now being used to break down the Government bars against inflation so as to force higher wages, and that the CIO is the most effective force arrayed against the "work-or-fight" law advocated as essential by the President, the Secretaries of War and Navy and the combined chiefs of staff—add these things and the effrontery of Mr. Robinson in prating about CIO self-sacrifice and high patriotism can be more fully appreciated. The truth is the "no-strike" pledge always was a phony pledge. Since it was made, strikes have increased—not diminished. The truth is that, while publicly praising their patriotism labor leaders have used the war to extend their power, promote the closed shop and force higher wages under threat of the very strikes they pledge themselves to eliminate. The truth is that strike trouble of a serious kind is looming this year and countless millions of man hours have been lost in war production through strikes, walkouts and absenteeism.

WONDERFUL as has been our war production, it would have been far greater but for the strikes and the labor lag. The heads of War and Navy departments know this quite well and privately have chafed under the political pressure which made necessary the sending of Labor Day congratulatory messages to labor leaders upon their "magnificent performance." If it were not for the strikes and the labor lags, the chiefs of staff, the Secretaries and the President would not have urged a limited work or fight act. None of them wanted to do so. Considering these things, the speech of Mr. Hillman's aide would be ridiculous if the situation were not so serious. But, Mr. Robinson ought not to be singled out for censure. His was just a typical speech such as has been made many times by CIO leaders and often proclaimed by CIO publications.

PERHAPS some of them believe these things themselves. Sheer reiteration has made a good many uninformed people believe them too. But not those who know the facts and have the figures. They know that in this whole war there has been nothing more hollow than the protestations of these labor bosses of their unselfishness; nothing more hypocritical than their "no-strike pledge." The alibi that they cannot control their followers is not a good one. If that is so, then they should not have made the pledge. In any case, it is an insult to intelligence to boast of it.

Madame Bonnet Makes Big Hit In Capital
Wife Of French Diplomat Makes Impression
Scribe Speculates On Adoration Of Vets

By HELEN ESSARY
(Central Press Columnist)

WASHINGTON, Feb. 24.—Madame Henri Bonnet is one of the cleverest diplomats who has ever landed on these receptive shores. Mme. Bonnet has no official title. She is merely the wife of the first ambassador freed France has sent to the United States. With her husband she has been in this country only a few weeks.

Yet, already everywhere I go, I hear pleasant stories about Mme Bonnet. "Mme. Bonnet is so friendly . . . . She is so gay. . . . So agreeable. Have you seen those adorable hats she makes?

"Mme. Bonnet stole the show in a five-minute impromptu talk the night her husband gave a speech to the Women's National Press club. . . . Mme. Bonnet has such a beautiful figure. How well she wears those new gowns the French courterieres are now turning out."

The other day I saw Madame in a portrait photograph. She was lovely in a romantic black gown on the new wool substitute, a French textile "fibran." As lovely as any professional model was Mme. Bonnet. And oh, so clever, advertising the struggling country he" husband is hoping to restore to the company of trusted nations with the grace of her own personality.

Maybe Mme. Bonnet will be as good an investment in Franco-American good will as the Goddess of Liberty the French people put in New York harbor.

Truman In Limelight

Just had a call from a knowing friend who says she's confused by the whole vice presidential situation nowadays. She says she never heard of Harry S. Truman as a vivid personality until he got to be vice president.

He was a senator and a good investigator. She understood he had a committee named after him. But nobody ever told her he had a sense of humor or played the piano. Now all she hears everywhere she goes is "the latest about Harry Truman."

Politicians used to have a motto, so my friend reminded me: "Make him vice president and bury him."

Now the motto might be changed to "Make him vice president and bring him to life."

Why, who ever heard much about Henry Wallace except for plowing under little pigs until he got to be vice president? And now look at all the commotion he's making!

Vice presidents ought to be rotated, my friend thinks. Give a Republican a chance at the job just for three months or so. Then maybe you'd find out if he was entertaining enough to be a safe candidate for president.

May Spoil Soldiers

Don't mean to be discouraging, but there's more than a chance that many of the soldiers will come home—shall we say slightly spoiled? The young Aeneases had a lot of attention in their world wandering. So much attention indeed that they have married many of the most aggressive attention givers.

In England, so I'm reliably told, Americans are marrying admiring English girls. Many are the romances in all parts of the world in which race and color is no barrier. This involved situation, according to a young friend home on furlough, is true of many Americans wherever they go.

In addition to the attraction of the American as a fresh and, sometimes, too fresh personality, there are those pockets full of American dollars.

In England, especially, the American soldier has so much more to spend than his English ally that almost any English girl will desert her countryman for a Yankee. "Let me get to the U. S. A. somehow" is the hope of hundreds of foreign women. "We hear it's a woman's paradise."

Heaven knows what shades of skin and cuts of jaw will come out of this war in the next generation. The postwar world ought to be an ethnologist's dream. Certainly the strength and daring of the inhabitants of the "wrong side of the tracks" have often showed themselves the stuff heroes are made of. The postwar aristocracy will be made of stern stuff, I hope it will.

A dramatist could do a beautiful postwar play and call it something like this: "The Wrong Side of the Tracks Moves Over."

The World and the Mud Puddles

A ROOSEVELT CONSTITUTION

President Roosevelt in his fourth inaugural address casually dropped a remark that "our Constitution is not perfect yet." No work of man can be said to be perfect, and it is possible that there yet may be room for improvement in the United States Constitution. Mr. Roosevelt does not specify what improvements could be made. It is probable that he had in mind as one improvement, from his own point of view, confirmation of treaties by a majority instead of a two-thirds vote of the Senate. The issue may soon appear in Congress.

Several times during his long tenure, Mr. Roosevelt has indicated that he was irked by the Constitution. During his first term, in asking enactment of certain legislation, he admonished Congress not to be deterred in meeting the wishes by doubts as to constitutionality. After the Supreme Court had knocked out his NRA he sneeringly referred to the Constitution as a "horse and buggy" document. In his attempt to pack the Supreme Court he was motivated by an anxiety to get a Court which would interpret the

LOOKING AT LIFE
By ERICH BRANDEIS

In my morning paper appeared the obituary of one Philander Betts, 3d, well known engineer and builder of electric railways who died in his 76th year at his home in Belmar, N. J.

It wasn't so much Mr. Betts' career that interested me, but the name Philander and the "3d" that was part of his name.

He was the son of Philander and Sarah Betts, people of good old American stock, and left a son, also named Philander.

I don't know why they named the boys Philander, particularly when there were no poets, no dreamers, no romancers in the family, just fine old Anglo-Saxon people, practical, matter-of-fact people whom you would associate more with names like John and William and Henry.

The only Philander which I remember as the possible origin of the name was the Dutch knight in Ariosto's "Orlando Furioso", which was written in 1516.

According to my encyclopedia "the name has come to be synonymous with masculine coquetry, and from it came the verb to philander."

And certainly Philander Betts was no philanderer but an exemplary member of his community, a student and scientist, a former colonel and a member of many learned and patriotic societies and clubs.

I have often wondered why my parents named me Erich and why my wife's folks named her Olga.

I guess my people wanted me to be another Erik the Red, that swashbuckling, fearless conqueror—they certainly never thought that with a name like that I would become a writer and a sedentary sort of a guy.

And Olga? You think of Russian princesses and the Volga Boatman and of luxuries at the Tsar's Gilded court in St. Petersburg.

But my Olga was brought up in the North Carolina mountains and the nearest she ever came to the Volga was the little French Broad river that flows its insignificant way through the Blue Ridge mountains.

Why Not Alice?

I had a letter the other day from a girl who works in a little shop in a little Pennsylvania town whose name is Alvce. What's the matter with Alice?

And a niece of mine, for no reason in the world is named Alicia.

I guess it's because all parents have dreams for their kids and the names they give them express the hope they have for them.

Maybe that's why so many boys are being named Franklin these days.

If I had any boys I'd name them Tom or Jim or Joe—or at least Thomas and James or Joseph.

Somehow, a simple name like that seems to make it easier to fight your way up. It takes a lot of courage to live up to a name like Philander or Winfred or Lionel.

And how about the poor homely, plain girl has has been christened Patricia or Dolores or Gwendolyn or Gladyse?

Somehow I can't quite imagine a Cholmondely Washington as the father of our country or a Reginald Lincoln at Gettysburg.

No man has ever become great because of his name and every name that is great was made so by the man who bore it.

County Group Is Ready For Drive

County Chairman Roy F. Conway Announces Aides For Red Cross War Fund Campaign

TWO MEETINGS OF WORKERS PLANNED

R. F. Conway, chairman of the county division in the 1945 Red Cross war fund, has completed the organization of his county committee and designated the following chairmen for the various communities and rural districts of the county:

Bessemer Boro—Mrs. R. E. Murtland.
Edinburg Ind.—Mrs. D. N. Baird.
Enon Valley Boro—Mrs. N. E. Avery.
Hickory Twp.—Mrs. C. L. Bowden.
Little Beaver Twp.—Mrs. W. B. Wallace.

Union Twp.—J. Arthur Turek.
Volant Boro—Mrs. Carter Johnston.
Wampum Boro—H. W. Marshall.
Washington Twp—John B. Shaw.
West Pittsburg—Mrs. Ellen Adelaide Drake.
Wilmington Twp.—Roy McFarland.

Mr. Conway also announced two meetings of workers in the rural district—one on February 28 at Hillsville and one on March 1 at New Wilmington. Workers in these areas have been advised of the exact time and place.

Various organized groups throughout the county have indicated their willingness to promote the Red Cross drive, and there is every expectation of a substantial contribution from county residents. The Lawrence county quota of $102,000 includes New Castle and Ellwood City as well as all other sections of the county. While the drive does not open until March 1 a great deal of enthusiasm among workers has already been created and many have indicated their intention of beginning active solicitation immediately.

Arrest Follows Gas Station Theft

George S. Kennedy, police lieutenant, last night in East Washington street, arrested William Eardley, Neshannock avenue on charges of breaking and entering and larceny at the Amoco Gas station in East street, February 22, police Chief Robert D. Hanna reports.

Lieutenant Kennedy found in Eardley's possession a radio which reportedly was stolen from the service station. The chief said no trace has been found of $300 worth of gasoline coupons, which also were reportedly stolen. He added that Eardley was being quizzed about other burglaries here recently. An information will be made against Eardly sometime today the chief explained.

trout-fishing stream in peace-time days. It is about the same width as the Roer and the Germans have in all probabilities built a water system here as well, and it may prove a formidable obstacle.

But the Erft peters out into the plains just east of the Rhine river city of Bonn and the Americans, if strategic and tactical plans call for such a move, can outflank it by driving to the east and then the north. Such a step might make Bonn rather than Cologne the initial objective of the drive.

By JAMES I. KILGALLEN
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

PARIS, Feb. 24.—Assault forces of the United States First and Ninth armies have smashed out a 15-mile front east of the Roer river and penetrated into German positions to a depth of three and one-half miles, supreme headquarters announced today.

Twelve towns were taken in the drives by both armies against German resistance which continued only light to moderate on most sectors.

Twelve towns were taken in the drives by both armies against German resistance which continued only light to moderate on most sectors.

Six counter-attacks loosed by the Germans against the Ninth Army during the night between Linnich and captured Juelich, were repulsed.

Headquarters revealed that the Ninth captured 1,239 prisoners in the initial onslaught designed to sweep the Germans back to the Rhine.

The Ninth gained an average of two miles east of the Roer but achieved a maximum penetration at one point of three and one-half miles.

The Americans surged ahead well across the Linnich-Juelich-Dueren road.

Nazi Counter-Attacks

The first of the six separate counter-attacks launched by the Germans against the Ninth came at 10:30 p. m. The lateness of the first German counter-blow was attributed to daylong Allied aerial attacks which held the enemy in check.

Planes of the German air force also were active during the night, carrying out sorties near Linnich.

Flooded conditions in the Roer battle area made the going more difficult for the attacking American forces on the First Army front. The current of the stream on the First Army front was between 10 and 12 miles an hour, double the speed of the waterway along the front of the Ninth.

Haze also hampered the visibility of the First Army forces. Nevertheless, the First scored gains which averaged between one and two miles.

More Towns Fall

Among the additional towns which fell to the Ninth Army which previously had taken Juelich and five other points were Baal, about four miles north of Linnich; Korrenzig, northeast of Linnich; Broich, one and one-half miles northwest of Juelich, and Altenburg, two miles south of Juelich.

The towns of Huchem-Stammeln, three miles north of Dueren, and Hambach, four miles southeast of Juelich, also were taken.

The German DNB agency reported fierce fighting was in progress between American and Nazi troops for control of key roads in flooded valleys east of the Roer.

Although Juelich itself was taken, German forces continued to hold out in a moat guarded citadel.

May Be New Cassino

Latest reports indicated that the Juelich citadel may become a miniature Cassino, fortified Italian city in which the Nazis held out for months against strong assaults. At headquarters it was revealed that the walls of the citadel are 120 feet thick and 40 feet high. The structure dates back to the year 1548 when Juelich was rebuilt. The citadel was constructed along the lines of the ancient Antwerp fortress and includes inside its walls numerous ventilated tunnels.

Resistance to the American First Army was on the increase but so far American casualties continued light. Early opposition came mostly from automatic weapons, mortar and artillery fire which interfered with the bridging of the Roer river.

Patton Drives Ahead

Lieut. Gen. George S. Patton's Third Army, collapsing enemy resistance in the Siegfried bulge northeast of Vianden, Luxembourg border town, stormed forward for gains of up to four miles across a 20-mile front and occupied 14 more towns.

The Germans, disorganized, were retreating across the entire front below Pruem.

More than 1,000 prisoners were taken. These Germans apparently waited too long to get out of the bulge and dismounted American cavalry forces pushed forward four miles to make contact with the Sixth Armored Division. This operation cut off German rear echelon trops trying to retreat in the direction of the Pruem river.

The cavalry troops captured seven towns northeast of Vianden.

Capture Six Towns

The 90th Infantry Division attacking southwest of Pruem gained up to a mile and one-half across a five-mile front. The division captured six towns, all 8 to 12 miles southwest of Pruem. Resistance in this area was disorganized.

From Pruem southward to Echternach, on the Luxembourg-Reich frontier the Third Army now has smashed through a 35-mile stretch of the Siegfried line.

The 94th Division now operating east of the Saar river cleared the Germans from the town of Serrig, two and one-half miles south of Saarburg, and took 300 prisoners, mostly members of the people's army.

The troops of the 94th sealed off an area east of the Saar a mile deep and two miles wide.

The town of Ockfen, north of Saarburg, was cleared.

German artillery fire against the bridgeheads across the Saar was heavy.

DAIRY MANAGEMENT CONTROLS MASTITIS

Good dairy herd management will control and prevent mastitis, according to research studies made recently at the Pennsylvania State college. Organisms association with the disease have been found in the udder of all dairy cows, and the dairymen's job is to prevent any complications that may set these organisms into action to harm udder tissues.

Of foremost consideration for mastitis control is the feeding of dairy cows. Herds with good, bright green hays, grass silage and balanced grain ration do not seem to have as much mastitis trouble as poorly fed cows. Vitamins A in the diet assists in preventing bacterial infection.

When cows are on pasture, less udder trouble develops. The other important item in mastitis prevention is "cow comfort". Environment for dairy animals should have no drafts, should be not too cold, nor too hot, ample bedding in a comfortable stall of the proper size, and elimination of hazards which may injure udders.

Proper milking, such as the managed milking methods, will help reduce inflammation that irritates udder tissues. Most mastitis cases have been traced to chilling, injury or bruises.

HOME-BUILT DEVICES SHOULD BE MADE NOW

Winter and early spring is the time to build those labor-saving devices so they will be ready for the spring rush. With little new farm machinery anticipated this year, farmers can help themselves by reconditioning their equipment and building their own devices to save labor and time.

Buckrakes, a familiar accessory on many farms, have been found useful for other chores than handling the haycrops. These can be madefrom old trucks, or can be mounted on tractors. Power or electrically driven hay hoists have been real time and labor savers, and many of these have been built from junk auto parts.

Lime-spreaders, handy two-wheel trailers, and many other home-built equipment have been appearing on our farms, as mechanically minded farmers find new ways of doing a job easier and faster. Plans are available for making home-built equipment at the Agricultural Extension Office, 206 Post Office building, New Castle.

PARENTS SHOULD RESPECT THEIR CHILDREN'S NEEDS

Some parents are so afraid that their children will grow away from them that they neither respect their needs nor allow the children the privacy they should have, according to Miss Marguerite Little, extension child care specialist of the Pennsylvania State college.

She says that if a child is teased or kidded too much he may refuse to let his parents know what he does. Also parents should realize that it is unwise to pry into certain phases of a child's life and that they cannot spare certain parts of his life as he grows up.

The child must learn through experience. Parents can help if they provide opportunities for him to learn to take care of himself and if they take time every day to share fun and happy experiences with the child as well as to remind him of his shortcomings and oversights. If such a plan is followed, the child is less likely to need scolding and lasting mutual bonds will be formed.

Children take responsibility only when it is given to them. They need emotional outlets, particularly in the teen ages. Parents and communities should offer the right kind of places where children may gather and have clean, wholesome fun.

Teacher's Mission Here Wednesday

Sessions Will Be Held At First Baptist Church, Afternoon And Evening

The state-wide Teachers Mission that comes to the First Baptist church, this city, Wednesday, afternoon session, mission fellowship dinner and evening session, will present five outstanding specialists under the auspices of the International Council of Christian Education, the Lawrence County Sunday School Association and the Ministerial Association.

Registration starts at 2:15 in the afternoon, and at 2:30 the opening devotions will be in charge of Dr. G. S. Bennett. The pastor's conference will be in charge of Dr. T. E. Henry of Huntingdon; the children's division conference will be in charge of Mrs. William Barmont of Harrisburg; the youth division conference will be in charge of Rev. George A. Schultz of Philadelphia; the adult division conference will be in charge of Ira C. Sassaman of Lewistown and the administrative conference for Sunday school officers will be in charge of Dr. Homer N. Clark of Pittsburgh.

The mission fellowship dinner will be served at 6:15 p.m.

The evening session will start at 7:30 with a song service and devotional period. The address of the evening will be delivered by Dr. T. F. Henry, pastor of the Stone Church of the Brethren located on campus of Juniata College, and his theme will be, "The High Calling of Teaching". Following this there will be a service of dedication.

Sunday school officers and teachers, and all interested in evangelism, are invited to be present. Especially are those working in the various departments urged to get reservations in early. The evening session is a general session open to all Sunday school and church members.

VETS FIGHT AGAIN

HAVANA, Cuba.— (INS) —Eleven members of the Havana, Cuba, post of the American Legion who fought in the first World War are back in uniform for the second one. A total of 47 sons and daughters of the members of the Havana post also are in uniform.

Congregational Church Continues Adjusted Schedule

The First Congregational church on Sunday will continue its cooperation with the Mayor's committee and the Coal Shortage Emergency by holding services during the hours when it takes the least coal for heating.

Sunday school, church service, and Welsh American chorus rehearsal will all continue to be held at successive hours on Sunday afternoon as for the past several Sundays.

The arrangement is temporary and the normal schedule will be resumed as soon as the emergency justifies. However the congregation has entered loyally upon the arrangement in a spirit of cooperation by the church.

'This Is Life' Program Tonight

Weekly youth rally known as "This Is Life" will meet again tonight in the Y. W. C. A. auditorium on the public square at 8 p. m.

Tonight's speaker will be Rev. Gerald Letell, pastor of the Warren, O., U. P. church. Soloist on the program will be Joseph Proctor, song leader of the youth gatherings. The "This Is Life" girls ensemble will also be heard with Mary Virginia Roberts in charge.

WESLEYAN METHODIST MINISTERIAL HOUR

Ministerial Hour which is heard over WKST every Sunday afternoon at 5 o'clock will be in charge of the Wesleyan Methodist church, Rev. E. D. Lupton, pastor on February 25. Musical selections will be furnished by members of the church. The message will be delivered by Rev. H. C. Van Wormer of Titusville, who is Conference president of the Allegheny Conference of the Wesleyan Methodist church.

Old gypsies had a marriage system which did not preclude marriage with nieces or half sisters.

Pre-Easter Drive Gains Momentum

Third Sunday Of Eight-Week Campaign Occurs Tomorrow; Keen Interest

Tomorrow will be the third Sunday, of the 8-weeks pre-Easter increase campaign, and already more Sunday schools have registered more points than at this stage in last year's campaign. Those Sunday schools that have not points to their credit as yet, need not be discouraged, as some Sunday schools that are slow in getting started, make splendid progress after they get started.

While the figures of the Sunday school attendance are being published, as well as New Castle church percentages when furnished, still the goals of evangelism and Bible study are equally if not more important. By attending the teaching mission at the First Baptist church next Wednesday, impetus will be given to the evangelistic effort. As to Bible study, and daily Bible reading outline is good, and the habit can easily be formed and proves most valuable.

A number of the participating Sunday schools are setting attendance goals for each and every class of the Sunday school, and are appealing to the teachers and members to use personal calls and the telephone to get as many out as possible. In the last analysis, there are but two ways to increase Sunday school attendance—secure new members and bring back those who have not been attending regularly.

The leading Sunday schools in the four, New Castle, groups, at the present are: First group, Second U.P.; second group, First U.P.; third group, Maitland Mem. Prim. Methodist; fourth group, Wesley Methodist. As the margin is very close in some of the groups, new leaders may be announced from Sunday to Sunday.

Elwood Haynes of Elwood, Ind., was the first person to recieve a license to operate an automobile, in 1893.

George Washington was chairman of the convention which framed the Constitution.

Grand Cheminot Is Guest Of Forty And Eight Friday Night

Members Of Local Legion Group Hosts At Dinner Meeting In Legion Home

Dr. Ralph Christie of Butler, Grand Cheminot of the Forty and Eight of the American Legion, was a guest of Voiture 81 of Lawrence county at a dinner meeting in the Legion Home Friday evening and told the local voiture of some of the objectives of the Forty and Eight for this year.

Other guests included L. J. Morris, alternate Cheminot Nationale, now a resident here; past Grand Cheminot Ray Moulter of Beaver county; Bill Mitch, chef de gare of Beaver county voiture; P. G. Chef De Gare Lloyd Pinkerton of Beaver county, and Voyageurs Ray McKinney of Beaver county and George Kemper of Butler county.

Lawrence county voiture plans an active child welfare program, and Chef De Gare C. C. Sweesy named Orville Potter, Dr. Hyman Frank, Louis Moretti, Charles E. Weltz and Charles D. Ross as a committee from the local voiture.

Fine Response Made To Cane Requests

All you need do is ask for something for service men in New Castle and you'll get it. Two days ago an article was run in The News asking for canes for the wounded veterans at Deshon annex. Folks were asked to leave canes they wished to contribute, in the office of the Greater New Castle Association.

Yesterday afternoon there was a bouquet of assorted canes on their way to the annex. Convention canes, fancy bamboo canes, dark wood canes and one that had been carved out of a tree limb.

Now it develops there is a shortage of canes at Deshon hospital also and folks are asked to keep the canes coming. After the need is filled at the annex, the balance will be sent to the Deshon General hospital.

RETURN TO WORK

PITTSBURGH, Feb. 24.—(INS)—Jones & Laughlin Steel corporations vast Pittsburgh works today returned to virtually normal operations.

The four-day wild-cat strike ended with almost 95 per cent of the midnight shift employes reporting to the South Side and Hazelwood plants. The idleness of about 8,500 workers had cost a production loss of around 12,000 ingot tons, a company spokesman said.

Constitution along lines which "ran along" with his own mind.

The fact that the Constitution has been amended many times (and re-amended once) indicates that the people have not considered it infallible or absolutely complete. Whether all of these amendments have been for better or for worse is a matter of individual opinion.

As a matter of fact, the people of this nation had better have left the Constitution absolutely alone after having added the amendments embodying the Bill of Rights. These amendments were absolutely correct and rounded out the most remarkable document—as Mr. Pitt declared, the most remarkable political document ever prepared and enacted into law by any nation on earth.

Certain administration spokesmen—including Mr. Wallace, Mr. Berle and Mr. Tugwell—have indicated from time to time that we are inclined to place too much importance on this fundamental of freedom. Is it possible that the President's casual statement indicates a certain sympathy with that viewpoint? Or is he only preparing the ground for an amendment dealing with the Senate's treaty responsibilities?

REPORT HOLDUP MEN GET $20,000

Trio Posed As FBI Agents Says Victim Of Detroit Robbery Last Night

DETROIT, Feb. 24. — (INS)— Three holdup men, posing as FBI agents, today invaded the home of Sam Garofalo, 39, a beer garden proprietor, held his family and maid prisoners several hours while they searched the house and escaped with $20,000 to $23,000.

The trio accused Garofalo of dealing in counterfeit money and gas rationing coupons and making improper income tax returns.

Two of the men drove Garfalo around the block several times while their victim tried to explain he was not violating any laws. Garofalo told police he gave the pair $30 and asked them to "forget it."

The bandits returned to the home where they left the third thug guarding Garofalo's father, Joseph 63, his wife, Marion, 31, and the maid, Anna Devito, 29. There they found a paper sack hidden under soiled clothes in a closet, which contained the money.

Garofalo said the had kept the money in the house more than a year intending to invest in a home. During their stay, he said, he produced some whisky and the visitors drank from glasses, which police are checking for fingerprints.

Lawrence Caravan Has Party Friday

Local Caravan Of Syria Shrine Has Interesting Program In The Cathedral Last Evening

Lawrence Caravan No. 15 of Syria Shrine of Pittsburgh had an enjoyable meeting and program in the Cathedral Friday evening with the new officers presiding.

Included in the program of entertainment were numbers by the a cappella choir of senior high school directed by Robert A. Duff, music director, and a one-act play under the direction of Miss Clara Hartsuff, dramatics coach at high school.

Guests included Chief Rabban William Gregg, Assistant Chief Rabban Clarence M. Head and Past Potentates Arch Nance and T. Ralph Barr of Syria Shine at Pittsburgh.

Refreshments were served at the close of the evening's program.

New Series Of Evening Sermons

Problems Of Life Today Will Form Basis Of Sermon Series By Rev. J. C. Rose

Pastor of the Second U. P. church, Rev. J. Calvin Rose, will begin a new series of evening sermons on Sunday. Each sermon of the series will begin with a problem taken from life today and will show how God would have us face these problems for the mutual good of all concerned.

The sermons will be delivered in the following order: "She Laughed at God", "I Hate Him", "She Was Betrayed", "She Could Not Forget", "He Said He Would Not, But Did", "She Became a Tempress", "He Forgot Himself".

Sailor Makes First Gift To War Fund

Service Man Shows Appreciation For Services Rendered By Gift To Red Cross Drive

First contribution in the local Red Cross War Fund Campaign was made at the chapter house the other day when a discharged sailor stopped in and asked for help in preparing some papers in connection with his discharge. When the papers were completed, he wanted to pay but was told that there was no charge for Red Cross services. At his continued insistence, a five dollar gift was accepted and put down as the first contribution to the 1945 Red Cross War Fund.

Today the first contribution from an organization was received when a check for $25 from the New Castle Lions club was turned in. Alec Samuels, chairman of the special groups committee, has requested all clubs and organizations to give consideration to their Red Cross subscription as soon as possible. In previous campaigns the widespread support given by such organizations has been an important factor in the drive.

Pennsylvania AFL Cancels Convention

HARRISBURG, Feb. 24.—(INS)—The Pennsylvania Federation of Labor (AFL) announced today the cancellation of its 45th annual convention scheduled to be held at Harrisburg in April in compliance with the request of the Office of Defense Transportation to cut unnecessary travel.

Officials said the meeting would have been the most important conference since the war due to critical labor developments. Prime matters, including Pennsylvania's trade unions, will be considered by the executive council at the state capital April 24, they added.

Thirty-Five Cars For Pittsburgh Area

PITTSBURGH, Feb. 24.—(INS)—Seven new 1942 cars will be available during March for the seven-county Erie district and 35 will be assigned to the nine-county Pittsburgh area according to announcements received today from OPA Ration Chief George A. Hoeveler.

Citing the March allotment as "the smallest quota yet", OPA representatives pointed out that the entire allotment had been used for each month since August plus balances from previous quotas leaving nothing available as reserve now.

THE PARENT PROBLEM

I started to notice an increase in nervous tension. Finally it came out. He can't wrestle well enough to hold his own and constantly takes a beating at it. He doesn't like to wrestle but he is jumped on constantly because he is easily overcome.

"This evening I found him in his room crying like his heart would break. This was what he said: 'Mother, the boys at school just hate me. I want to be friends with them so badly and I don't know how to get them to like me. Today I got tired playing basketball and when I sat down to watch the rest play they all started to call me all the ugly names they could think of.'

Needs Advice

"I read where you advise attracting other children to the child's home. That is a bit difficult in the country where we live so far apart. However, I am letting him have a playmate to stay all night with him once a week.

"Dr. Myers, how can I help him? He needs his daddy so badly just as thousands of other lads all over the world need theirs. But since, for the time being, I must be both parents in one, I do need help."

My reply, in part: I marvel at your insight and wise ways with that boy. I hope you are able to help him see that he needs to change himself in order to win the friendship of the other boys, therefore, never to give up in a physical contest as long as he has breath; to evince satisfaction over the prowess of other boys to win at games and never seem to be a braggart about his own successes at books and the like. It would be fine if he could take boxing and wrestling lessons. Scouting, which he could enter at 12, also should help him. I wish more teachers and young fathers still home would take a personal interest in such fine lads.

close to the battle lines. Here, ground and air forces work together on an immediate common objective, which is to knock out the enemy in a fixed area.

Every morning, Brigadier General Richard E. Nugent, commander of the 29th TAC, meets with ground-force officials to discuss operations for the coming 24 hours. They go over the targets to be hit from the air and set up priority ratings based on the order of the targets' importance.

Nugent, 42-year-old West Pointer, has worked out an ingenious plan for improving the understanding between ground and air forces. Each week, five of his pilots are selected to go up to the front with the ground forces for a week, and five men from the ground forces go to the fighter-bomber bases. When they go back to their respective units, they have a new understanding of the dangers and hardships faced by their opposite numbers.

Tactical bombing is a never-ceasing process. The destruction across the Rhine is undoubtedly widespread. However, the men here know how thorough is German organization for the repair of damage. Ten minutes after bombs severed a main rail line, a reconnaissance plane found German repair crews at work on the site. Major targets must be hit over and over again.

With the coming of spring and better weather, overwhelming air attacks will be thrown against the Reich. Then progressive deterioration will make repairs almost impossible. That is why here, where they try to guard against false optimism, you can begin to detect signs of something like hope that the end of this weary war in Europe may not be too many months away.

They Haven't Let Him Down, Now It's Our Turn To Help

Ask any G. I. Joe what the American Red Cross has meant to him. From the time he was inducted right on through to the front lines, the Red Cross has been at his side, doing the things for him that you would like to do. Made no difference where he was, he knew the Red Cross was handy to help him when he needed it.

Now it's our turn to help the Red Cross, that it may continue to help him. Here in Lawrence County our share of the Red Cross War Fund is $102,000. The campaign starts March 1st.

It's a personal responsibility of all of us to see that this money is raised. This isn't a campaign with some abstract objectives. It's a campaign to finance the American Red Cross in its work of helping that boy of yours. Your money is needed to help the Red Cross continue its service to him.

They haven't let him down. Now it's our turn to help.

G. I. JOE knows

where your Red Cross money goes!

Powers May Hold Right Of Veto In Security Council

Belief Comes From Stettinus Statement On "Unity Of Action"

By LEON PEARSON
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, Feb. 24.—Washington diplomats interpreted the speech of Secretary of State Stettinius at Mexico City as giving the first official disclosure that Russia's insistence on the veto power in the world security council had prevailed.

This was the high point of news in a speech which covered the whole range of United States foreign policy and set the sights for the inter-American conference on problems of war and peace.

Great Powers Unity

The disclosure on voting procedure came when Stettinius said that one of the essential elements of a successful world organization was "unity of action by the great powers who alone have the military and industrial strength to prevent aggression."

This was taken to mean that the formula agreed upon at Yalta was one in which the major powers, who will be the permanent members of the security council, will have to give unanimous approval for the application of sanctions against an aggressor.

Thus, if one of the powers declined to approve such sanctions, it could exercise the right of veto.

Equal Sovereignty

At the same time, Stettinius declared that a second essential element for the new organization was "the equal sovereignty of all nations, large and small, who must act together to create the essential conditions of lasting peace."

The precise language of the Crimea formula on voting procedure will not be disclosed, however, until it has been accepted by France and China, and these two governments join the "Big Three" in issuing invitations to the San Francisco congerence beginning April 25.

From the North American viewpoint, great interest was attached to Stettinius' five-point summary of U. S. foreign policy.

Five Points Of U. S. Policy

The five points of American policy were:

1. The earliest possible final defeat of the enemy. Stettinius said the military plans completed at the Crimea conference will shorten the war.

2. The determination reached at Crimea on "strong and sweeping policies toward Germany," including disarmament, demilitarization, punishment of war criminals and destruction of the Nazi party. Stettinius asked the other American government for support in this program.

3. Assistance to the liberated peoples of Europe in destroying "the last vestiges of Nazis and Fascism" and creating "democratic institutions of their own choice." Stettinius said this declaration of the Crimea conference was "animated by much the same spirit and purpose as the good neighbor policy."

4. The creation "at the earliest possible moment—and before the end of the war—of an international organization to insure the peace of the world, by force if necessary."

5. A United Nations postwar program to eliminate "hunger, poverty, ignorance, and disease." Stettinius said that it was "part of the business of this conference" to consider practical steps for implementation of this program.

Charge Daylight Saving Program Idea Is Failure

WASHINGTON, Feb. 24.—Two members of Congress, demanding repeal of daylight saving time, declared Friday the War Production Board can't prove that the advanced hours saved electricity.

Representative Cannon (Dem.), of Missouri, and O'Hara (Rep.) of Minnesota, bluntly challenged WPB's statement that the moved-ahead clocks have conserved 4,800,000,000 kilowatt hours since Congress made "war time" effective in 1942. Cannon said:

"It is utterly incomprehensible."

O'Hara snorted that it is "silly" to say juice is saved at one end of the day when it has to be used an hour earlier at the other end.

Both have urged the house interstate commerce committee to recommend repeal of the act and Cannon said a subcommittee has unanimously voted in favor of repeal.

VETERAN OFFERS BLOOD TO SAVE UNBORN INFANT

PITTSBURGH, Feb. 24.—(INS)—A Pittsburgh veteran of World War II today offered his blood to Mrs. William G. Colebourn, 29, of Georgetown, O., who needs it to save the life of her unborn child.

H. J. Stringer, 27, made the offer after reading that Mrs. Colebourn would need transfusion of type O-RH negative blood for a Caesarian section next Wednesday.

New Ambassador From Italy Arrives

Takes His Baptism Of Diplomacy In A Difficult Role, But Hopes For Success

NEW YORK, Feb. 24.—(INS)—Alberto Tarchiani, the newly arrived Italian ambassador to the United States, is taking his baptism in diplomacy in a difficult role.

Italy, once and enemy, now a "co-belligerent" and in the future perhaps a full-fledged ally, hopes to achieve a great deal in its relations with the United States.

Tarchiani stated frankly on his arrival that the greatest aspiration of his county is to become one of the United Nations, that for reconstruction Italy needs billions of dollars.

The new ambassador is a persistent man. He began his political career as a newspaper man and editor and headed the strong Corriere Della Sera of Milan before Mussolini put the Fascist muzzle on the Italian press. He fled his country and was one of the group of exiles in France who constantly worked against Il Duce.

Once he organized and participated in a propaganda flight over Milan, a flight which originated in Switzerland. For this he was called before a Swiss court but his defense was such a ringing indictment of Fascism that he was exonerated.

When the Germans swept across France, Tarchiani fled to the United States and spent more than a year in this country, gaining a knowledge of American ways.

He was one of the first Italian exiles taken back to his native land when the Allied armies smashed across the Mediterranean.

Leader Of Outfit Once Led By Martin Is Now Full Colonel

HARRISBURG, Feb. 24.—(INS)—Gov. Edward Martin today applauded the promotion of Lt. Col. Daniel B. Strickler of Lancaster to a full colonel commanding the 28th division's 110th infantry led by Pennsylvania's chief executive in World War I.

"I am extremely proud of the work of the 28th divsion and am happy that Colonel Strickler now commands my old regiment," the governor stated.

Strickler, who also was awarded an oak leaf cluster to a silver star and a bronze star, is the only officer in the iron division whose service started with the division during World War I.

Truck Upsets In Princeton Vicinity

Large empty truck, enroute from Cleveland to an eastern city, overturned a short distance beyond Princeton at 7:15 p. m. Friday but the civilian driver, James P. Reddy, 3055 Beckett street, Cleveland, escaped injury, according a state police investigation.

The truck, enroute to the army, was reportedly forced off the road. Reddy steered the truck toward a field. It struck a snow-bank and upset.

Allies Hold Gains On Italian Front

ROME, Feb. 24.—(INS)—American and Brazilian troops, in fighting which lasted throughout the day, held and consolidated their newly-gained positions at Mount Della Torraccia and Mount Castello, smashing repeated enemy attempts to regain key features on the road to Modena, Allied Mediterranean headquarters announced today.

Tuesday noon's meeting of New Castle Lions Club will be a business meeting, with reports of activities from the various committees. Let's keep our good attendance record up.

ROY F. CONWAY,

Fewer Students Get Employment Papers

HARRISBURG, Feb. 24.—(INS)—A 26 per cent drop in the number of employment certificates issued high school students during the first semester of the 1944-45 term was reported today by the department of public instruction.

Jonas E. Wagner, child accounting and research statistician said the simultaneous decline in high school enrollments was five per cent less than last year.

Despite its rural character, about two-thirds of the people of Australia live in towns.

EVERY RED CROSS WORKER IS YOUR PERSONAL MESSENGER OF COMFORT TO YOUR MAN IN UNIFORM

Welcome your RED CROSS Volunteer Solicitor

He comes to speak for G.I. JOE

OPEN your heart to him, when he comes. He speaks for wounded men lying in hospitals; for American boys stagnating in prison camps; for lonely men who have not seen home in years.

Through him, you'll hear the thanksgiving of these men in whom the bright flame of reason, faith, and hope might have died...if your Red Cross had not been beside them.

You'll hear the bright "Hi!"...the shy "Thanks!"...from many a far-flung island. And you'll know your Red Cross must keep on... keep serving, keep doing...till the world is "right," once again, for these men.

So you'll give more this year...you'll know the need is greater than ever.

And you'll greet with a smile the faithful neighbor who comes to your door! For this volunteer not only comes to speak for "The Boys." He comes to save you time and foot-steps. He's saving you a trip to the Red Cross headquarters to make your contribution for your boy.

Men of the outdoors who have reached their fiftieth milestone and plus, will hatch plans to attend the annual dine and talk session at Sylvan Heights.

There is odd going's on at Havana, f'r instance. A few days ago two-buck bettors who played the show horse in the third event and the place horse in the fifth won—and yet lost. Pay-off on Instead, which deadheated for third was $1.40 for a $2 bet, and the pay-off on Lovo, deadheat for place with Well Said, was $1.80. . . . Small wonder the gamblers frown when one mentions Mexico and Cuban ovals.

National and American League clubs have raised a total of $2,630,460 for war relief during 1943-44. . . . William Johnson, Chicago, operator of Jacksonville dog tracks, is quoted by Jimmy Burns in the Miami Herald as saying "I think racing will be back by March 15". However, he qualified the utterance by adding "I'm basing that opinion on the belief the war will be over before that time."

Chicago White Sox have added Clay Touchstone, minor league veteran pitcher, to their staff. . . . Jimmy Bivins will take on Melio Bettina, heavyweight, at Madson Square Garden, March 23. He should defeat Ponderous Johnny Flynn, Tuesday night in Cleveland. . . . George Richards, East Washington street, is one of the better knowns of the younger fishin' world. He rates a plug—and he's going to get it, too; a new bass plug with which to open the season.

Mel Ott, manager of the Giants, has announced Billy Jurges, veteran infielder, will retire to enter private business. . . . According to J. Norman Lodge, Associated Press correspondent, you cannot buy a golf ball in New Zealand. One can rent 'em for 50 cents each and upon returning 'em you get back 30 cents. . . . Operation of Sylvan Heights golf course during 1944 cost $9,450. Receipts amounted to $3,091, or a $6,259 loss. . . . Many golfers are now in uniform.

How fast can a fish swim? This query should take equal rank with "Can a fish hear?" and "Can a fish smell?" . . . Al Lopez wore No. 12 on his uniform last season because it was the twelfth season he caught 100 games which evened him with Gabby Hartnett for the all-time National League record. . . . There's a rumor afloat that Babe Ruth may become a coach for the Yankees. . . . Kid Francis, Panama, battles Leon Spencer, Detroit, in "Ford City," February 26.

In reply to a question from F. 2-c R. A. Hedland, San Pedro, the published answer said Grove City beat Ne-Ca-High in football in 1918, 1919 and "1940". The answer should have read "1918-19-20". However a typographical changed a 2 to a 4—hence the correction. . . . Lt. New Castle High Defeats Ambridge In Final 38 To 36

New Castle Racks Up Sixth Section Win, Koszela-Goldman Scoring Stars

BILL ANDREWS-OWOC PLAY FINAL GAME

New Castle high school basketball team closed its 1944-45 season last night at Washington High floor with a stunning 38 to 36 victory over the tough Ambridge High quintet, to avenge an earlier setback. It was New Castle's sixth league win against eight defeats, and the 14th win of the entire year against nine setbacks.

New Castle played fine ball to win the exciting struggle. The score was tied up five times. Not more than four or five points separated the two teams any time in the game. New Castle led 11 to 7 the first period and 19 to 18 at the half, mainly through the great work of Bill Andrews, the star New Castle forward who ended his high school career last night by getting nine points, all in the first half, in a brilliant exhibition of floor work.

Ambridge Roars Back

Ambridge came back strong in the third stanza to whip into the lead at 31 to 30 as the period closed, mainly through the fine shooting of Al Goldman, the league's leading scorer, who had four field goals for eight points. New Castle's final period drive led by Al Koszela was enough to dump the invaders, young Koszela getting two very important field goals, and so did Ray Owoc as his final high school effort.

Koszela was high point man in the battle with 15 points, followed by Goldman with 14 and Stepanik with 11. In foul tossing New Castle had eight out of 13 and Ambridge had six out of 14. Coach Phil Bridenbaugh used two subs, Bill Walls and Joe Fomka, and they kicked in with five points, the latter getting four of them.

Creditable Record

New Castle made a creditable record for the year, defeating such teams as Ford City, Section 1 champions; Butler, runnersup in Section 1; Westinghouse, city champs of Pittsburgh last year and well on their way this year to repeating; Sharpsville, Har-Brack, Youngstown East and losing only to Donora, outside the league.

Left for next year will be the following stars: Al Koszela, Dick Whittaker, Pete Stack from the starting five, Walls, Fomka, Weaver, Rhodes and Eakin from the reserves.

New Wilmington Trounces Mercer

Score Is 43 To 29 As New Wilmington Warms-Up For Tourney Games Monday

NEW WILMINGTON, Feb. 24.—New Wilmington High school basketball team, Section 21 champions, walloped the Mercer High team last night at the Community House floor, 43 to 29, in a warm-up game for the battle Monday at New Castle, when they play Zelienople in a first-round, Class B WPIAL elimination game.

New Wilmington led at the half, 25 to 15, and really put the pressure on the final two period, with Clyde Shaffer the high scorer with 15 points, while Chesmer, Miller and Coblentz, the latter continuing his sensational defensive work, were dumping in 25 points between them. Peters and Long led the Mercer team in tallying. Coach Tim Hutchison used but five iron men again last night as in the Wampum game.

In the preliminary game the Mercer Junior Varsity trimmed the New Wilmington Junior Varsity, 30 to 18.

Westminster Repeats Earlier Season Win At New Wilmington, Jorgenson Stars

(Special To The News)

NEW WILMINGTON, Feb. 24.—Westminster College Titans basketball team repeated a victory over Juniata 89 to 55 last night at the college gym and looked impressive, doing it, boding ill for the great Akron team on Saturday March 3.

Noble Jorgenson the sensational Westminster center had a large evening dumping in 34 points to give him 290 for the season to date, and a big lead on the others in the Tri-State Area.

Play Geneva Next

Westminster held the high-scoring Dick Wareham to 17 points while Johnny Kashlak, the star Freshman forward from Duquesne had 16 of the Westminster points.

It was the 12th win for the Grover Washabaughmen in 17 starts this season. The next game will be with Geneva, March 1, at Beaver Falls. The final home game as said above brings Akron to the Westminster gym.

Robinson Wins Decision Again

NEW YORK, Feb. 24.—(INS)—The boxing business these days is like a key to a safe loaded with money as Ray Robinson and Jake LaMotta proved in their all-New York match last night at Madison Square Garden.

Robinson won again on points, making it three out of four over the heavier, plodding Bronx middleweight, but despite the repeated encores for this match, a crowd of 18,060 turned loose $93,185 to see Robinson win almost as he pleased.

Washington Hi Junior Champs

Washington Defeats Franklin High Rivals Again, Score 36 To 27

SPEARS-BLACK SCORING STARS

George Washington Junior High made it a clean sweep over Ben Franklin High in both major sports this year, by winning the basketball championship yesterday afternoon by a convincing score of 36 to 27 at Washington floor. Washington last fall won the grid championship also.

The Art Alexander coached machine led the entire way—8 to 1 the first period and at the half 20 to 11. The third stanza ended 28 to 16. Spears was high point man for Washington with 14 of the points, while Black had 10. For Franklin the work of Damaskon, and Calabria was the best, the two youngsters dumping in 15 of the points between them.

Washington Looks Good

Washington won at Franklin gym recently by a lone point at 33 to 32, but did much better yesterday, with a fast-breaking offense that had Franklin worried.

The Washington gym was packed to the doors, for the championship battle.

(Special To The News)

WAMPUM, Feb. 24.—Wampum High Indians basketball team bounced right back from a defeat handed them by New Wilmington, to defeat in a photo-finish the Beaver High team last night at the local high school floor 48 to 45.

Wampum led the first half 24 to 19, but lost the lead in the third period 36 to 30 with a few reserves in the game. Action in the last period was terrific, Wampum trailing 44 to 34 with three minutes and 40 seconds left, and were trailing 45 to 43 with a minute and 20 seconds left, having turned on the heat. Bennett with 18 points was the scoring star, with Porter dumping in 11 for Beaver and Willoby having 11 and McCormick 13.

Wampum's next game and probably the last at home will be a benefit game with a fast well known high school team yet to be selected, it was announced by Coach Butler Hennon.

FAIR OR FOUL

By LAWTON CARVER
INS Sports Editor

NEW YORK, Feb. 24.—There was a time, and not so long ago, when they would call the straight-jacket department if you were heard muttering that the first four-minute mile ever run may be reeled off in the next few weeks. But now even Daniel J. Ferris, who is allwise in track and field matters and a conservative observer of same, looks forward to the "impossible". The Swedes have made him that way.

The initial step in the general direction of a four-minute mile will be for Gunder Hagg to unload himself from an incoming ship. The second will be for him to accept an invitation to run on the Dartmouth track where, in 1938, Glenn Cunningham was clocked in 4:04.4.

Invitation Awaits

The invitation is awaiting Hagg's arrival, Ferris said, and whether he takes a crack at it depends upon the Swede's own notions on the event. He would be provided with sufficient scratch and handicapped opposition to make a run of it, such as the one arranged for Cunningham.

"And I think there is a strong chance of his making it in four minutes," said Ferris, the head of the national AAU. "The Dartmouth track, because of its length, is the only one like it to be found anywhere. Cunningham proved its speed."

According to comparative figures, Hagg should be able to run that four-minute mile with a fraction to spare (now bring on the straight jacket).

If you will adjust your slide rule and calipers, we'll try to show you how Ferris makes it work.

Until he ran on that Dartmouth track, Cunningham's best time was 4:06.7. Thus he shaved two and three-tenths seconds off his standard at Dartmouth when he ran that 4:04.4 against an assortment of handicapped competitors.

Two Seconds Off Record

Hagg's best time for the mile is 4:02 flat in Sweden, in a race which he lost to Arne Anderson who was clocked in 4:01.6.

All Hagg has to do is accept that invitation, then contrive to shave two seconds off his best previous performance compared with the two and three-tenths of Cunninghan.

In distance those two seconds would amount to 35 or 40 feet—six or seven steps for the long-legged Swede.

It's that simple, although it has never been done before and was never seriously talked about until Hagg and Anderson began cutting up back in Stockholm.

There has been some talk that runners just naturally run better in the Swedish climate. That could be, but Hagg still seems to be a considerably better miler than the best we ever produced, the same being Cunningham. His 4:06.7 outdoors was bettered by Hagg on his previous visit here with a 4:05.3 performance, which beat out Hulse's 4:06 flash for a day.

Those stalwart disbelievers who insist the four-minute mile never will arrive have little to go on now except the fact that it has never happened. As to that, there haven't been any Hagg's or Anderson's around until now either.

Plaingrove Hi Tops Emlenton

Score Is 35 To 31 As Plaingrove High Wins League Game, Crawford Stars

(Special To The News)

PLAINGROVE, Feb. 24.—Plaingrove High School basketball team defeated Emlenton High here last night in a North Butler County League game 35 to 31 in a whirlwind finish.

Plaingrove led 9 to 0 the first period and 16 to 11 at the half, but Emlenton tied it up at 26-26 as the third stanza ended. It was a ding-dong battle the last few minutes with the Plaingrove class showing. Crawford was the sensational star of the game, getting 21 of the Coach Studebaker machine's 35 points. Bresnahan led the Emlenton team in tallying with 18 points.

Parkers Landing will play at Plaingrove next Tuesday in a league game, it was announced.

Game Warden Says Dogs Killing Deer

Requests Hunters To Help Rid Deer Country Of Dogs

DUBOIS, Pa., Feb. 24.—(INS)—Game Protector Frank A. Couse today reported that 16 deer have been killed by packs of vicious dogs in Clearfield county during the past week. Couse warned that unleashed dogs will be shot on sight if found chasing deer, and he asked sportsmen who have been feeding browse to the deer to help rid the county of the dogs. A drive will begin Sunday to round up the roving packs which have slaughtered half-starved deer trapped in the deep snows.

Manager Of Ossie Harris Confident Pittsburgh Fighter Will Defeat Bell

PITTSBURGH, Feb. 24.—(INS)—Tommy Bell of Youngstown will arrive in Pittsburgh tomorrow from New York where he has been training diligently for Monday night's ten-round main bout with Ossie "Bulldog" Harris.

Harry Pittler manager of the "Bulldog", was exuding confidence that Harris is ready to pull a major upset at Bell's expense.

Both Bell and Harris are former local Arena performers in amateur fights.

Pirates Schedule Cubs, Home Opener

Pirates Will Play Chicago Cubs At Forbes Field On Friday, April 20

PITTSBURGH, Feb. 24.—(INS)—The Pittsburgh hot stove and cracker barrel league Friday began calling strikes and balls in anticipation of the coming season as W. E. Benswanger, president of the Pittsburgh Baseball club, announced that April 20 would be the date of the Pirates' opening home game.

In scheduling the Chicago Cubs as the visiting attraction, Benswanger pointed out that this would be the second time in 14 years that the Cubs and the Pirates faced each other in a Pittsburgh opener. The bucs won in a 1940 home season opener.

THEIR DREAMS COME TRUE!

Tears flow as these Merchant Seamen return to their native land on the Gripsholm and experience the realization of their dreams, for though joy brims over in their hearts long pent-up emotions are impossible to control. Seaman James E. Atkins, top photo, of New Britain, Conn., embraces his 2½-year-old daughter, Elaine, whom he has known only through pictures during three years in German prison camps. His wife completes the happy circle. In the lower photo his sisters, Mrs. Betty Garrignes, left, and Virginia Lee Blackston, both of Baltimore, Md., kiss Seaman Charles Frederick Blackston, another of the 45 Merchant seamen repatriates who have arrived aboard the Swedish exchange liner, which carried a total of 1,209 passengers.

Seventh Ward

School Pupils Make Campaign Display

During the next few days there will be shown in Weller's store window on Liberty street, the clever displays of four of the classes of Mahoning school who took part in the War Stamp and Bond Campaign, January 3 to February 14 inclusive.

1-1 class: poster showing silver discs each representing a silver dollar towards buying stretchers for the wounded. Goal set, $75, goal reached, $93

2-1 class: a scene showing a battlefield, each soldier represents $1 toward buying equipment for a soldier in the field. Goal set, $75, goal reached $98.

6-1 class: large Red Cross on which are rolled bandages, each representing $5 worth of stamps during campaign toward buying bandages for the wounded.

9-2 class: each figure represents a member of this class. The girls, telephone operators; the boys linemen. Together they worked to reach a $75 goal to buy 4 field telephones. They exceeded their goal by $47.15 making it possible to buy 6 'phones. This class is also proud of its record for regular buying, each member buying at least one stamp a week since September.

The classes purchasing the most stamps and bonds during the campaign are 3-1, 4-1, and 4-2.

Red Cross Is Doing Big Job For Service Men

Many Services Are Rendered Here And Abroad For Those Fighting On Various Fronts

The national quota for the Red Cross Campaign which begins March 1st, is $200,000,000. That is a lot of money even in these days of astronomical war costs. But it's not much in the eyes of the millions of service men and the millions of relatives who look to the Red Cross to help them bear the sufferings of war.

The quota for Lawrence county is $102,000, less than $10 for each man and woman in the service. Any one of dozens of services performed by the Red Cross will be worth many times $10 to G. I. Joe from New Castle.

During the year ending last June, the Red Cross operated 727 clubs—on posts in this country, in leave areas here and overseas, and in combat zones; 194 of the clubs were mobile units traveling to men in isolated units, over 2,000,000 meals were served monthly. In hospitals, Red Cross workers rendered innumerable services, handled 1,300,000 individual problems, and showed 150,000 movies. Prisoners of war will remember forever the Red Cross food parcels, of which 10,300,000 were prepared in Red Cross centers; seeds, cook books, and simple tools are included in these invaluable kits. Red Cross field directors have handled over 14,000,000 communications for service men; in many cases the messages were of vital importance to the service man. Since February, 1941, over 11,000,000 pints of blood have been collected thru the Red Cross blood donor service, to supply the blood plasma which, according to the Surgeons General of the Army and Navy, is the foremost life saver of the war.

These are but a few of the services now being carried out by the Red Cross in support of the war. Lawrence county's quota of $10 for each man or woman in the service should be far exceeded in the drive which will be carried on during the month of March.

Purim Feast To Be Observed Monday

Services Scheduled In Tifereth Israel Synagogue For Feast Of Lots

In this city and throughout the world, Jewish people will be celebrating the Feast of Purim on Monday evening, February 26, and continuing on Tuesday.

The celebration this year will be of special interest because of the resemblance between Haman, the villain of the story, and his modern counterpart, Hitler of Germany. As in the former case, Jews everywhere will express the hope of celebrating in years to come the providential deliverance from their new oppressor.

This festival is based on the Biblical Book of Esther, which recounts the story of Mordecai, a Jew of Persia in the days when Haman was the prime minister. Mordecai's orphaned niece, Esther, raised in his household, became the queen of King Ahasuerus. Haman had designs upon the wealth of the Jews In his greed he planned nothing less than a wholesale extermination of the Jews of Persia, and what was more to his purpose, the confiscation of their possessions. His false accusation has reechoed through the centuries: "There is a people dispersed among the peoples of thy kingdom; and their laws are different; neither keep they the king's laws, therefore it profiteth not the king to suffer them.' He also offered to divide the loot with the king. In a thoughtless moment, the decree of destruction was authorized. Here follows with rare artistry and dramatic effect the plea of Mordecai to his niece and her perilous intervention with the king, resulting in the utter destruction of the malefactor and the deliverance of her people.

Throughout the centuries Jewish people have observed this festival because it emphasizes the right to difference of opinion—the essence of democracy. There is a carnival character to the celebration and also an emphasis upon the injunction of "Shalach Monos," sending gifts to friends and above all to the less fortunate members of the community.

At Tifereth Israel synagogue services will start Monday evening at 7:30 o'clock, with Rabbi Hyman Krash in charge. Services will also be held Tuesday morning at 7:00 o'clock.

COIN CLUB WILL MEET MONDAY EVE

Members of the New Castle Coin Club will meet in the Y. M. C. A. Monday evening, at 7:30 o'clock, and a delegation from Ellwood City is expected to visit the club on this occasion. Some interesting displays are expected. The club's meetings are open to anyone interested in coin collecting.

Pneumonia is the most frequent serious illness of infants and children at this time of year.

BY REQUEST

In explanation of the request for conscientious objectors to be sent to Lawrence county to work on farms, the commissioners on Friday said: "Sometime ago we were requested by farmers of the county to try and get them some help such as is being done in other counties. Farm labor this summer will be short, and it seems to us only logical that a young man who will not fight, due to religious scruples, should at least work to replace men who have gone out to fight.

"The commissioners have no authority to say who shall be taken into military service or who shall not. We can exert some effort to get help for farmers in this county who are shorthanded, and this we expect to do."

FINED

Andrew Perkins, charged with driving a garbage truck of the city's while intoxicated, pleaded to the charge and was fined $100 and costs and given 30 days in the county jail Friday. He will be released in three days if the fine and costs are paid.

Paralysis Spread Baffles Science

NEW YORK, Feb. 24.—(INS)—Much new knowledge of how infantile paralysis spreads was obtained during the 1943 epidemic, President Basil O'Connor said the Foundation's 1944 annual report, made public Friday.

"How is spreads from person to person is as yet undetermined," O'Connor said. "It is, however, known that the virus is exceedingly wide-spread and that there are many infected persons who show no paralysis—that paralysis, in fact, may almost be considered as a common infection which ordinarily produces few, if any, important or characteristic symptoms."

Export permits are needed to ship from Mexico yarns, thread and twine made of hard vegetable fibers.

Potter Candidate For Re-Election

Register And Recorder Orville Potter Seeks Republican Nomination

ORVILLE POTTER

Register and Recorder Orville Potter today announced his candidacy for the Republican nomination for re-election to the post he now holds. His statement of announcement follows:

"In announcing my candidacy I also wish to express my appreciation of having been permitted to serve. I have endeavored to conduct the office in a courteous, business fashion, and if nominated and re-elected expect to continue that policy.

"These are unusual times, and with all of us doing the war jobs that are at hand for the civilian population, with thousands of our voters in military service, with transportation impeded because of the necessity for war gasoline, it is impossible to conduct a political campaign in the usual manner. Personal contacts will be difficult and it will be necessary for me to depend upon my record in the office and the kindness of my friends.

"I ask the support of the Republican voters at the coming primary election."

Crop And Feed Loans Available

Urging farmers to arrange now for 1945 seed and fertilizer requirements, Field Supervisor I. J. Nealon of the Emergency Crop and Feed Loan Office, has announced that applications are being taken for spring crop and feed loans.

These loans up to $400 are available to farmers, either land owners or tenants who are eligible and advances will be made immediately so that fertilizer and other supplies may be purchased on a cash basis. The security required is a first lien on 1945 crops.

Farmers in Lawrence county may communicate with Field Supervisor Nealon, Box 454, Butler, Pennsylvania, or arrange to meet him in the Post Office at New Castle on Tuesday, February 27, at 10:30 a. m.

Alaska's Position In World Trade Is Getting Stronger

COLUMBUS, O., Feb. 24.—(INS—"Alaska has a very real position in world trade now and in the after-war period," declared Dr. Philip Smith, chief Alaskan geologist of the United States geological survey, in a recent talk at Ohio State university.

He explained that due to geologic structure, climate, temperature, precipitation and transportation, many things will have to be accomplished before "we can know what the potential oil resources of Alaska are."

The Katalla area in the south along Katalla bay, he said, is an important area because it is the only one where there is actual production of oil. Although it has never been exported an investigation is now going on, he said.

In the Yakataga district some oil has been found but no real production as there is no large reservoir space for accumulation of oil. The northern portion of this area has the most promising structure for oil accumulation but the work of producing it would be doubtful because of the steep slopes making it difficult to get there, he declared.

Some of the other regions where drilling had been carried on are in the Alaska peninsula, and in Kanatak and vicinity. He explained however that no commercial production had been accomplished.

In the northern or coastal plain section, in the vicinity of Barrow, no drilling has as yet been attempted, he said, although the Navy is now carrying on experiments there. A large part of this area has been set aside as a naval oil reserve. Due to difficulty in bringing ships into the coast because of heavy ice in winter and the shallow water along the coast this area presents many difficulties to be overcome, he explained.

Sailor Finds Sub Was Built By His Former Co-Workers

MIDDLETOWN, O., Feb. 24.—(INS)—Her engines stilled to elude her pursuers, an American submarine rested silently on the bottom of the ocean. Perhaps not quite "silently," for she was frequently rocked by violent explosions.

Upstairs on the surface, a pack of Jap destroyers circled busily about the area in which they believed the submarine was waiting. She had stolen into the Jap fleet and, with a torpedo, had sent one of their destroyers to the bottom, and the Japs were out for revenge.

For 18 hours, the sub sat like a setting hen on the ocean bottom. It was a lifetime to the crew of American boys, one of whom was Bob Carpenter of the American Rolling Mill at Middletown, O. As the Jap ash cans exploded, water trickled through the straining hull and the acrid fumes of the storage batteries bit the nostrils of the crew who crouched in a cold sweat.

As Bob Carpenter sat there wondering whether the next ash can would burst the sub's seams, he watched the paint flake off the steel bulkhead. Suddenly, there clearly appeared before him where the paint had been, a blue Armco stamp which denoted the sub had been partially built by his former co-workers at the steel mill in Middletown.

"They made a good job of making the steel for that sub, too," Carpenter explained, "because we finally eluded the Japs, and there was very little damage to the submarine."

Restrictions On Flying Must Be Lifted For Peace

TOLEDO, O., Feb. 24.—(INS)—Current restrictions on private flying will have to be lifted if America's post war dream of replacing garages for hangars is to come true, Alfred B. Bennett, aircraft executive, told members of the Toledo Pilot's Association recently.

"The aviation industry will never prosper as long as we have legislation of the restrictive type which limits instead of encourages private flying," Bennett said.

The Aeronca Aircraft Corporation executive pointed out that while many small airplanes will sell for $1,800 after the war, prices will have to be reduced further, possibly through production techniques.

"Postwar airplanes," Bennett asserted, "will be equipped with simplified controls. Weather flight control instruments, now used so successfully in warplanes, will be valuable in postwar flying.

"However, liberalization of CAA rules and regulations will be needed immediately after the war, or even now, for they are the biggest barried to private flying. The CAA physical requirements also will have to be relaxed if more people are going to learn to fly after the war.

"The aviation industry is in exactly the same position the auto industry was in during 1910, for all autos that could be sold under existing conditions were sold. The auto industry did not advance until lower cost vehicles were produced and suitable roads were constructed; and the aviation industry will not go ahead until low cost planes are produced and airports are constructed in every community."

Gaston Post Will Meet Tuesday Eve

Perry S. Gaston Post, American Legion, will meet in the Legion home Tuesday evening, Commander Lee R. Hanna announced today. Entertainment Chairman Edon O. Womer has promised lunch for the meeting.

Membership will be stressed at this meeting, the post needing but 18 more members to exceed their last year's membership total, which set a new high in recent years.

FR. FRANCIS PAUL ON RADIO PROGRAM

Rev. Fr. Francis Paul, of St. Agatha's church, Ellwood City will deliver the sermon Sunday evening at 6:30 o'clock, from the local radio station.

Father Paul will speak on the Catholic hour, which is sponsored by the Lawrence County Catholic forum.
